United States Is Awaiting Reply In Far East Crisis

Premier Hideko Tojo Calls For East Asia Purge

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Japan has replied to the United States note setting forth America's position in the Far East and expressed dissatisfaction with certain points, the British radio said tonight in a broadcast relayed from a Tokyo broadcast. The BBC was heard by NBC.

Awaits Tokyo's Move

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Alertly waiting for Tokyo's next move in the acute JapanAmerican crisis, President Roosevelt warned other nations today that America is united behind his foreign policy of opposition to aggrssion anywhere on earth.

"That there is debate, or that there are statements of coiflicting opinion prior to the decisions should not be taken by persons abroad as an indication of lack of cosesion among our people, though that mistake is sometimes made," he said. "While there have been expressions of different views in regard to our foreign policy, I have always felt that those differences were of degree but not of principle."

The President made these statements in a letter to Senator Gillette (D-Ia.). The senator has consistently opposed the Roosevelt foreign policy and voted against the legislative measures designed to implement it. Recently, however, he wrote to Mr. Roosevelt saying that the majority has spoken and offering his "support and services" in carrying out the policy which the majority has laid down.

Mr. Roosevelt's reply was made public by the senator. Whether it was timed to coincide with Japan's consideration of her next step was a mater of Washington conjecture. In this connection, however, it was pointed out that Japan, in the opinion of some, had been

Is Arrested On Check Charge

A "check artist" was arrested about 11:15 o'clock Saturday night in a car parked at Third street and Lamine avenue, after police had received a tip he had passed a worthless check at Hugie's Cigar store. Along with him was a woman who claimed to be his wife, but denied passing any of the checks herself, although she had one on her and had been told by her supposedly husband to do so.

The man gave his name as William B. Daulley, alias Gabriel Nava, while the woman gave her name as Ida Yates Daulley. He is about twenty-five years old and she said she was twenty-two.

The check passed at Hugie's was for $23.38 made out on a Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., check. On the front was written in typewriter type, Habeart And Co., Sedalia, Mo., and in red stamping "Pay roll". Frank Hugelman in talking with a friend learned the man had endeavored to pass a check at the Bungalow and that the couple was in a car across the street.

Officer J. H. Brooks answered the call and caught the two just preparing to drive off. He took them to police headquarters where they were searched. Daulley had three other similar checks while in the woman's pocket was only one. They denied passing of the checks on any other Sedalia merchants.

They said they lived in St. Louis. The woman stated she lived at Seventeenth street and Cass avenue and gave an Olive street address.

Both were lodged in the county jail pending further investigation. Their car, a coupe, was taken to police headquarters.

For 34 years Americans have financed victories against tuberculosis. This year the Christmas Seal Sale is a home defense measure.

In investigation was being conducted.

To Still Enroll Members In The Red Cross

Enrollment Is Far Ahead of That For The Past Year

Because of the great need for the Red Cross in the world today the drive for membership and contributions in the Pettis County Red Cross chapter will continue for a time, under a modified form, with a view of reaching those individuals and firms, not already contacted.

A. H. Wilks, General Chairman, states they have had fine enthusiastic leadership on the part of the Men's Division, John (Jack) Crawford, I. H. Reid, Joe Rosenthal, Ed Mullaley, G. T. Callender, J. H. Brunkhorst, and Prof. C. C. Hubbard of the colored Division, very ably supported by their workers, numbering approximately 100 men.

Mrs. Willard Dean, Chairman of the Women's Division in Sedalia, has worked untiringly with her 22 special groups, totalling 127 women helpers, she far exceeded last year's Roll--Call.

Mrs. Albert Wright has given much of her time handling details in the office. She has also helped in the general plans, for success of the campaign.

Mrs. Robert Spencer, Secretary of the local Chapter has worked many extra hours in the campaign, assisting wherever possible to assure the success of the Roll-Call.

Good Success In County

Mrs. M. E. Green, Chairman of the Women's Division of the County embracing 76 school districts, with her co-chairman, Mrs. Paul Zink, have met with unusual success, with their 100 workers in the County, under the following Chairmanship:

Dr. H. A. Hite, Mrs. A. N. Baker, Mrs. Henry Baslee, Green Ridge; Miss Eva Belle Hotsenpiller, Mrs. Karl Wimer, La Monte; Mrs. Lon Slaton, Mrs. C. B. El-

Former Sedalian Disappeared

Raymond Moore, a former Sedalian, who left here over a year ago for Aberdeen, Wash., where he had been employed at a logging camp for the Polson company, mysteriously disappeared on the night of October 11, and relatives are fearful he met with foul play.

The date of his disappearance was his wedding anniversary and after receiving his pay check he went home and left with the expressed intent of getting something to add to the anniversary's significance. He never returned and no trace has been found of him.

Mrs. Moore and daughter, Mary Lou, arrived here last Sunday to make their home, being accompanied by the former's sister, Mrs. Harry Neidel, of Aberdeen.

Mrs. Neidel, the former Miss Hazel Hall, of this city, will visit for a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hall at 1004 West Third street before returning home. Mr. Neidel, employed by the Harbor Plywood corporation, was unable to make the trip.

Mr. Moore is aged about 32 years, is about five feet nine inches tall and is dark complected. He wears glasses.

Green Ridge Man Wins On Stock

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Herman Smith, Green Ridge, Mo., showed the best stock in the Aberdeen-Angus Division for Cattle weighing1,050 to 1,150 pounds and Clarence Bradley, of Calhoun, Mo., placed second in the Junior contest of the Heavyweight Aberdeen-Angus Steer Class at the International Livestock Exposition today.

Shoe Factory Building Soon To Be Erected

All Financial Arrangements For It Completed

All financial arrangements for the construction of a new building for the Sedco Shoe company were completed Saturday. The trustees are expected to exercise the option for the ground Monday, probably let the contract for the building, and Tuesday or Wednesday work on construction can begin.

Options are held on lots immediately adjoining Highway 65 on the east, and north of the Missouri Pacific tracks, which are owned by Dr. C. A. McNeil and the city of Sedalia. The section owned by the city will be donated to the factory.

Present plans are for the building to be of tile, thoroughly modern in design, according to Charles Van Dyne, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which organization is sponsoring the opening of the new industry.

As has been stated before, Ellsworth Green, Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce asks those interested in employment not to make application until notified through the newspapers.

Time Ripe For Orders

R. J. Parnall, of St. Louis, who will be president of the Sedco company, in a letter to Mr. Green states in part:

"I would certainly like to get this cleaned up as quickly as possible because the time is certainly ripe now to get orders. My idea is to incorporate this company as quickly as possible so we can start to manufacture samples and sell shoes for March delivery. It is very easy to do this now and I can get more business than we dare take. I believe you realize by this time, that one thing I hate to do is to pass up business.

"For your information, statistics show now that on shoes of the character we are going to make in Sedalia, sales went up an additional 20 percent in the last quarter. If there ever was a natural in the shoe business, the Sedco company is going to be it."

Start Loans On Corn Monday

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 29.—(AP)—C. W. Sheppard, chairman of the Missouri AAA Committe, said today the government would start making loans to farmers on 1941 corn crops Monday. They will be handled through county AAA committees.

The loan rate for 63 commercial counties ranges from 76 to 797 cents a bushel. In non-commercial counties the rate will be 59 cents.

Only farmers who complied with acreage allotment requirements are eligible for the loans.

Helpful Talks To Hi-Y Boys

Problems Of Boys Of School Age Up In Conference

The problems of the average boy of high school age have been discussed, pro and con, at the Missouri Hi-Y conference which opened in Sedalia, at the First Methodist church Friday evening, and which will close with services at that church at noon today.

They discussed self consciousness, red tape in school, cliques, boy and girl relations, emotional stability, athletics, discipline in school, student government and student welfare, vocations, and other subjects.

They heard adults tell them that cliques may be good, or they may be bad. If their purpose is good, they are beneficial, but they may also work the other way if the motive is not uplifting.

They heard ways and means of overcoming self-consciousness explained. Confidence, they were told, is not an accident, it is something that can be acquired by anyone. It is not overcome by shrinking from something, but by meeting it face to face, and attempting to do that which seems very hard for them to do. They may not be as successful as they hope, at first but like in the game of football, it requires practice to acquire skill. It was explained to them also, to remember that they are not the only one that may be self-conscious. They were told to bear in mind that other persons experience the same feelings, and that they too are trying to overcome them.

Sponsored By Y. M. C. A.

The conference, sponsored by the West Central Area, Y. M. C. A. and the Missouri Y. M. C. A. Boys Work Secretaries Association, is attended by one hundred fifty boys from over the state,

The Kansas City Court directed the members of the county court to make a return on or before December 10.

Fred F. Wesner represented Rissler in the filing of the suit.

Fire Destroys $10,000 Home

Former Residence Of Mrs. Wade At La Monte Burns

The former residence of Mrs. W. D. Wade at La Monte, was destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at a loss estimated at about $10,000, which is partly covered by insurance. The fire is believed to have started from either an overheated fireplace or a defective flue from the fire place in which a fire had been built to take the chill out of the home.

The property was owned until a few days ago by Mrs. Wade, widow of W. D. Wade, a prominent citizen of the town until his death several years ago. Mrs. Wade sold the property to Everett Davis, Johnson county collector, who said his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Triplette, of Warrensburg, would move into the property.

Saturday Mr. Davis and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Triplette were at the home making some repairs and arranging to move into it soon. Mrs. Wade had vacated the place several days ago moving her belongings to the home of her son, L. F. Wade two doors south of her home.

Saved Some Furniture

She had left some furniture and other belongings in the residence pending a sale which was to have been held this week. Neighbors attracted to the scene rushed into the burning home and carried out considerable furniture, some expensive doors and other household fixtures, even to some of the plumbing.

Mrs. Nell Wade, of Kansas City, and Miss Marian Conway of Warrensburg, nieces, had arrived at the residence about 3 o'clock and when they stopped they noticed smoke coming from beneath shingles around the flue. They called to several persons notifying them of the fire, and soon a large crowd gathered and endeavored to fight the blaze. It had gained such a headway it was impossible to extinguish the blaze and their endeavors were turned to carrying out furniture, and throwing water on small buildings near the house.

The house was a two and a half story structure with twelve rooms and two baths. It was built of Carthage stone and stucco in 1914 by Mr. Wade at a cost estimated at little more than $10,000. At the time the house was built it was considered one of the finest in La Monte and was one of the last large residences there. It was

Reds Rout The Nazis From Rostov On Don

Soviets Report Other Gains In Counter Thrusts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moscow, under the direct threat itself, proclaimed tonight (Sat.) that Rostov on the Don had been delivered, its German captors routed from their week-old prize and plunged into westward flight by one of the most startling counter-offensives of the war.

The sharpest menace to the oil rich Caucasus thus apparently had been shattered, for Rostov is the northern gateway to that vital region.

Premier Joseph Stalin himself sent a message of congratulations to his southern commanders for "deliverance of Rostov from the Fascist invaders" and "raising again our glorious Soviet flag in Rostov."

Declaring the southern army of Field Marshal General Ewald Von Kleist smashed, the Russians said four divisions—the 64th, 14th and 16th tank divisions, the 60th motor division and the S. S. Viking division—were in full flight towardTaganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov.

The Moscow radio said that Red troops re-crossed the Don and invested Rostov from the south in their major assault while other troops broke through to the northeast. The Germans were said to have lost 5,000 killed.

Acknowledged Withdrawal

Adolf Hitler's high command already have acknowledged a partial withdrawal from the city.

Russian and German armies on the northwestern fringe of Moscow's defense zone plunged headlong across snowy plains last (Sat.) night, the Germans striking through for a frontal onslaught against the capital and the Russians fiercely attempting to halt them short of their goal with a flank offensive.

The fate of Moscow appeared to be wrapped up in the question of whether the Red army could

Bites Hand Of Man Annoyer

The white man who grabbed and frightened Miss Katherine Wilkinson, of 231 South Harrison avenue, in the 400 block on West Third street, between 6:30 and 7 o'clock last night, may be sorry, for he may have a very sore hand this morning. When he put his hand up over her face, partly covering her eye, she said the only thing she could do was to bite his hand, which she did. She bit it so hard, she said, there will surely be marks on it today.

Miss Wilkinson, employed as an elevator girl at Hotel Bothwell, was coming downtown to report for work at 7 o'clock. She was walking on the north side of Third street when she noticed a man running across from near the southeast corner of Third and Vermont. Suddenly he ran up to her and grabbed her. That was when she bit him. He released her and she ran east, crossing over towards the library, which was lighted. He ran after her. "You'd better not touch me," she said to him, to which he replied, "You'd better be careful yourself, see." She hastened her speed, she said, and he turned and disappeared behind some cars.

She reported the incident to police headquarters, giving a description of the man.

Sees Possibilities Of U. S. Troops Fighting Next Year

President Makes Ready To Rush Back To Capital

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 29—(AP)— President Rosevelt said tonight it was always possible that 'our boys in the Military and Naval Academies may be fighting for the defense of American institutions" by next Thanksgiving. He then conferred with Secretary Hull by telephone, and considered rushing back to Washington because of the latest turn in the Japanese situation.

Mr. Rosevelt made his ominous statement about the possibility of fighting at a dinner at the Warm Springs Foundation For Infantile Paralysis Victims.

Returning to the "Little White House" on Pine Mountain, he found a call from Hull awaiting him, and reached the opinion that he might have to leave here tomorrow afternoon, and arrive in Washington Monday morning, in view of a statement by Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo.

The Premier asserted earlier today that Japan would have to do everything possible to wipe out with a vengeance British and United States exploitation in the Far East.

Stephen Early, Presidential Press Secretary, told reporters: "As soon as the President returned to the cottage following the dinner this evening, he found a call waiting from the Secretary of State and they held a lengthy conversation.

Arranges For Return

"In view of the reported statement—an Associated Press Dispatch by the Premier of Japan—the President tonight is of the opinion that we may have to leave Warm Springs tomorrow afternoon, arranging the railroad schedule so as to arive in Washington Monday before noon."

The Chief Executive spoke of people in other lands overrun or attacked and those even in countries which are attacking. Then he added solemnly: "I think we can offer a litle silent prayer that these people will be able to hold next year a Thanksgiving more like an American Thanksgiving. That is something to dream about, perhaps.

"In days like these, our Thanksgiving next year may remind us of a peaceful past; it is always possible that our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of these

Report Vichy Yields North Africa Bases

Asserted Four For Air Activities Are Ceded Germans

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A foreign source reported tonight that the Vichy government had yielded to German demands for air and naval control in French North Africa along both the Mediterranean and Atlantic.

Supervision of four air bases formerly linked by the French Commercial Airline, Air France, already has been taken over by German officers, ground crews and pesonnel, this source said. The modern Tunisian port of Bizerte, one of France's wartime naval bases, has likewise been yielded, he added.

(In Vichy, government sources denied categorically that air and naval bases had been ceded to the Germans have filtered into the North African territory.)

(The Free French radio at Brazzaville, heard by the NBC in New York, charged that German secret agents are pouring into French Morocco in such numbers that they form the nucleus of a small army. It is said German Armistice Commissions were increasing in size while Italian commissions were being reduced. The same source said German submarines in the Mediterranean are not using the French base at Casablanca but are refueling at secret bases further along the coast.)

Not Immediately Confirmed

None of these reports could be confirmed immediately in either British or American circles in London.

The air bases are Rabat, on the Atlantic coast of French Morocco; Meknes, an important interior airdrome southwest of Fez; and Sfax and Gabes, Mediterranean

Four Injured As Car Overturns

Four residents of California were injured, one perhaps seriously, when a car, in which they were returning to their home, from Sedalia, turned over about two miles east of Sedalia, on highway 50, about 12:30 o'clock this morning.

The most seriously injured is Mrs. Opal Williams, who received a bad abraison on her left cheek, and who was in a semi-conscious condition about 1:30 o'clock this morning. Her husband, Richard Williams has an injury to his right leg, a possible fracture of his right shoulder, and abraisons on his back. Charles Williams, driver of the car suffered a cut on his ear, and John Garrison, also an occupant has a laceration on his scalp, one on his left ear, and a dislocated left shoulder.

Passing them at the time was another car, occupied by California residents also, Junior Murray, driving, William Murray, Mrs. Margaret Murray, Eugene Miller and Faye Flippin. They turned back on the highway and gave assistance to the injured.

Cross Roads Comment

by G.H.S.

A Crooked Stranger Makes A Call—

It is appalling the lengths to which dishonest persons go in plying their crooked trade.

One day I was passing through our paper storage room and met a total stranger moving about with a sense of importance and familiarity that might cause employees to mistake him for a salesman making contact with a department head to sell various kinds of merchandise that a newspaper buys. The fellow paid no attention to me. I realized that my looks were against me in impressing a stranger I might be a boss wanting to know what was going on around a business place he was supposed to look after. This got my goat for a moment—this lack of respect for the old ego—so I asked the stranger what his business was.

Rather officiously he stated he was preparing to remove from our plant a large supply of accumulated used electrotype plates, the kind required in printing national advertising. He intimated that he represented a firm usually charged with the responsibility of repossessing this valuable material. If he had acted a little more diplomatically, I might have been fooled. Suspicious of his actions, I asked for his credentials. He fished around in his pockets and then sheepishly answered that he must have misplaced them at home before coming to Sedalia. So I invited him to be on his way and to abandon the work he had already started in packing the plates. I expected an argument, but oddly enough, he left the plant immediately. I have never seen him again to this day although other legitimate representatives of the repossessing company have made regular calls.

Recently I discovered that the above incident is a periodic racket worked in newspaper plants. The same experience occurred in a small Kansas town recently while the proprietor was absent. Two men, driving a car, entered a printing plant, told employees they were repossessing metal, gave an employee $5.00 and left the shop with $75.00 worth of linotype metal. Says a bulletin from the Better Business Bureau of Kansas City:

"The confidence men operate in a high-handed manner, acting as though they had every authority to collect the metal they are stealing."

I suspect these are the same men who visited Sedalia, but didn't get away with it here.

I realize now that I should never have let that fellow get away. But I did, mistakenly, so have resolved that henceforth when I encounter a dishonest person I am going to call the cops. I have become embittered against smart-aleck cheats who try to make a monkey out of me.

* * *

Shoplifting A Constant Annoyance—

Sedalia merchants can tell you interesting tales of almost unbelievable experiences they have with emboldened shoplifters. They have to remain constantly alert to thwart petty thieves who steal small articles of merchandise. On the other hand, the bolder ones have been known to take one or two suits of clothes from a rack, put them under their overcoat and walk out of a store. One Sedalia store manager relates that a woman trying on fur coats left an old one behind and walked out wearing a new one without paying for it.

* * *

Every Now and Then A Trickster—

Merchants also have to be on their guard against tricky shoplifters who make it appear they have stolen something. When they are stopped and searched nothing is found on them. The shoplifter puts on an indignant air, threatens and sometimes does file suit against the store for an unjust accusation and the resultant mental anguish and disgrace he or she suffered.

* * *

A Case of Mistaken Identity—

A prominent, and honest Sedalian tells this story on himself:

He had been shopping in a local store. Preparing to leave he fumbled around his pockets and evidently his motions were such as to arouse suspicion of a new assistant manager recently arrived from out of town. The assistant met the Sedalian at the door of the store, grabbed him by the arm, proceeded to question him about having been engaged in shoplifting, and demanded that he hand over the stolen articles.

The Sedalian, who has a well-known and forceful manner of telling his critics what damn fools they are sometimes, proceeded to unload on this youngster. The manager, attracted by the turmoil, rushed to the scene and soon had the matter straightened out. The store manager would have been in a tight spot had the Sedalian brought suit, which he didn't. He is still trying to remember some of the choice cuss words he used on this occasion, and regrets that he didn't take them down in shorthand at the time.

* * *

Dressing Quail vs. Washing Dishes—

Every one has little inferiority complexes that bedevil him throughout a lifetime. Then after years laboring with a pet anxiety, comes an experience that wipes it out entirely.

I believe that one of the reasons I never became a fisherman was because of reluctance to bait hooks with wiggly worms or squirming minnows. Chicken-hearted, they call it.

I have admired a certain young Sedalian who is a genuine sportsman; he goes in for everything. Then I heard his wife talking about how her husband brought home quail frequently during season. But he is so squeamish about dressing the birds, he has made an agreement with his wife that if she'll do this job, he'll don an apron and do the dishes. He does just that, too, and is completely out of character in such a role.

The encouraging part of this episode is that it has revived my courage. Hereafter I shall not hesitate to bait a hook. I'm going to be a fisherman after all these years of waiting.

* * *

Friends; Real and Imitation—

I like people, I like friends. No matter how ornery others may believe them to be, I like friendly people. By not ever having had a feeling of hatred toward any human being I have developed, and I believe others do likewise, a sixth sense that warns one of the difference between a genuine and an imitation friend. Never tell the frauds that you are wise to them. This would only convince them that their already unjustified anomosity was justified. I recall a person, who scarcely knew me, once said frankly and openly, "Fellow, I don't like you." I believe he was one of the most honest human beings I ever met. Subsequently he became a fast friend, was very successful in his chosen profession although he died young. He was honest in every action in dealing with fellow men.

One does not have to be so brutally frank in announcing his likes and dislikes, however. Such a statement may be made to a man not in a pacific mood, one who might just take a healthy swing to prove that he didn't like you, either.

* * *

The Tragedy of Having Too Much—

One of life's greatest tragedies is somehow to become possessed of too much wealth. Not necessarily a million dollars, but so much money or property that one loses sight of the purposes for which money was created. Mere possession of more and more wealth becomes an obsession, makes a person mean and miserly. Makes a person embittered because of some slighting incident years and years ago. Makes him turn against all human beings. Makes him crawl into his shell. Makes of himself something that he knows deep down in his heart he doesn't want to be—sullen and sour, discourteous and detestable. Pleasant memories of a kindly soul are imperishable; possessions left behind are soon dissipated and forgotten.

Club Installs New Officers

Quisenberry Homemakers club had an interesting meeting under the direction of Mrs. P. S. Read, at the Chappell home.

Miss Dorothy Bacon installed the new officers: Mrs. R. S. Haggard, president; Mrs. Fred Albers, vice president and Mrs. P. S. Read, secretary. Later Miss Bacon displayed a splendid assortment of Christmas gift ideas.

Mrs. Fred Albers gave the lesson on the use of milk and eggs and demonstrated making tomato soup, which was served with the noon lunch. Mrs. Read enrolled new members in the Red Cross and distributed cut out romper material to be made for the Red Cross. Program Chairman Mrs. R. S. Haggard presented Mrs. P. S. Read, who gave an interesting review of The Good Earth, by Pearl Buck. Mrs. Glen McGarry, of Howard county, was a visitor. The next meeting, a Christmas party, will be with Mrs. R. S. Haggard.

WASHINGTON.—The five members of the Emergency Railroad Board ran headlong into some surprises when they called on the President before making another attempt to solve the wage dispute which threatens to tie up all the railroads of the country.

One surprise was that Roosevelt knew all about their closely guarded secret. This secret was that their original report, adamantly rejected by the Brotherhoods, was a last-minute compromise and that none of the mediators really approved of it. In fact they only agreed to it at the last minute to avoid a split decision.

Another surprise was that the President knew how bitterly the mediators had wrangled among themselves.

Most of the mediators were professors: Thomas Reed Powell of Harvard Law School; Walter L. Morse, dean of Oregon University Law School; James C. Bonbright of Columbia University; Joseph H. Willits, Rockefeller Foundation; and Houston Thompson, Washington attorney and ex-chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Despite the scholarly positions of the conferees, however, the atmosphere was anything but calm and cloistered. At one time the professors were so hot under the collar that several of them almost came to blows.

The Railroad Brotherhoods knew all about this squabbling, and this was one of the big reasons for rejecting the report. The Brotherhoods also saw to it that Roosevelt learned about the dissension.

According to the information given to him, the board battled through the whole night before a reluctuant compromise report was agreed on. That agreement was not reached until 8 a. m., the deadline when the report had to be in the hands of the printer.

One time during the night-long wrangle one of the mediators snapped, "Well, it looks like it's aspirin, coffee or liquor, depending on your taste."

Throughout the battle, Prof. Morse, chairman of the board, pleaded with his colleagues for a unanimous report. He warned that a dissent would be worse than no report at all. In the end his advice won, and the hodge-podge compromise was put together.

Unwanted Compromise

The root of the Brotherhoods' unyielding opposition to the wage recommendations was the wide disparity in the bases for the proposed increases.

The board gave the so-called non-operating employes a flat boost of nine cents an hour. But when it came to the operating groups the board switched to a 7½ per cent increase. This meant only about 5 cents an hour increase for lower-paid trainmen, but upwards of 7 cents for better-paid engineers and conductors.

Charging bias and discrimination, the irate Trainmen flatly refused to accept the plan and the other Brotherhoods backed them up.

Another thing that burned up all the Brotherhoods was the board's suggestion that the railroads go to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a 5 per cent increase in rates to offset the wage boosts. The unions contended this was wholly unnecessary, since the carriers were netting big profits; also it would antagonize shippers and the public against the Brotherhoods, who would get the blame for the rate advance.

Capital Chaff

During the middle of the coal strike, New York's very ill Senator Wagner, father of the Wagner Act and Social Security Act, told Roosevelt he would go on the air and appeal to labor not to spoil its New Deal gains by strikes. Roosevelt said: "Don't do it until you've consulted your doctors." Wagner's doctors said "No." They kept on saying "No", and Roosevelt kept on reinforcing them, but Wagner went on the air anyway. . . . With Washingtonians now being fined $20 for parking double, British diplomats have cluttered up residential Washington with diplomatic No Parking signs in front of their residences. . . . Postmaster General Walker is asking Congress for stronger legislation to bar from the mails literature attacking races and religions. . . . The Fight For Freedom Committee favors a law requiring all propaganda organizations to make public the source of their income.

U. S. In Dutch Guiana

Several backstage factors were important in connection with sending U. S. troops into Dutch Guiana.

One was the fact that the Dutch weren't very keen on having us go. It never leaked out, and probably will be denied, but the Dutch felt this might be the beginning of a new American Empire, and that there was no way for a little country like Holland to get the colony back if the U. S. A. wanted to keep it. Winston Churchill had to do quite a bit of talking in London to overcome this viewpoint, and Dutch hesitance was one reason why Roosevelt recently entertained Princess Juliana at Hyde Park.

Most important factor, however, and the reason why the British and Roosevelt insisted on the occupation of Dutch Guiana, was North Africa and Brazil.

Inside fact is that although the United States is developing about twelve excellent air bases in the bulge of Brazil, Brazil so far has not permitted U. S. troops to occupy them. Nor, for that matter, has any other Latin American country allowed the entrance of soldiers.

This fact—that a Latin American country doesn't want U. S. troops on its soil—is most understandable, and the State Department doesn't want to press it. After all the United States for years has been looked upon with suspicion as the Colossus of the North. Furthermore no sovereign nation wants foreign troops on its soil.

Nevertheless, it was recalled that the downfall on the low countries was attributed in a measure to the fact that the Belgians, French and Dutch failed to have general staff talks in advance of the German attack, and the Belgians refused to permit French troops on their soil in advance.

Therefore, the next best thing to having U. S. troops in Brazil was having them next door in Dutch Guiana. So with the collapse of General Weygand, and the Hitlerization of the Vichy government, Roosevelt moved.

For Hitler in French North Africa increases the danger to Brazil and South America. Also the Hitlerization of Vichy makes a U. S. move into French Guiana the next probable step.

Merry-Go-Round

After his egging experience in Detroit, Lord Halifax, British ambassador, has a very high regard for American marksmanship. Commenting on the incident he remarked, "My those people certainly were good shots." . . . As a result of a survey, disclosing Cuba has a large supply of unused machine tools, negotiations have been begun to try to obtain the vitally needed equipment for U. S. defense plants. . . . While no announcement has been made, that important OPM ruling several weeks ago giving top priority ratings to spare parts and maintenance equipment needed to keep defense machinery in good order has been extended to Latin America. Reason for this is to keep Latin American facilities in working condition so that they won't require new equipment, which we are not able to supply adequately now.

PLASTICS come to the aid of priorities-harried Santa Claus in a big way this year. The "happy Christmas morning" scene above tells the story, with the youngster surrounded by toys of cellulose plastics. There are dolls, automobiles, boats, blocks, rattles, cowboys and Indians. Last but not least are plastic tree decorations which are just as bright and colorful, and a lot tougher, than the conventional ones of fragile glass.

Phil A. Bennett

Our Congressman Says . . .

Amazing, Isn't It? In a recent letter to the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee the President said: "We must take immediate steps to absorb a large amount of purchasing power through taxation to offset inflation and pay a greater part of defense costs." I agree something must be done to prevent inflation. The Administration feels that if it takes money away from the people by taxation they will have less to spend and that by reason thereof demand for goods will not be so great as to cause unreasonably high or inflated prices because of scarcity. All of us agree when demand exceeds supply of any article the price thereof becomes high. But, the government is itself doing the very thing that brings price inflation, through excessive purchases by the War Department. This has caused a scarcity of many consumer goods and prices are rising, as we all know. As this heavy buying continues, inflation will continue too, regardless of heavier taxation.

I have conducted, for the past several months, a careful investigation into Army purchases by study of their official news releases. I have come to the conclusion that the Administration is planning for an expeditionary force of about ten million men. This, or graft and incompetency, constitutes the only explanation of these purchases in view of General Marshall's assertion before the Senate Military Affairs committee that we can defend the Western Hemisphere with only 1,720,000 men. Of course he, and the Commander in Chief, still deny any intention of another A. E. F. But, if this is true, why are we buying equipment for one? The people ought to be told the whole truth. And, if we are not going to have an A. E. F. we ought not to be buying for an army many times greater than authorized by law. Perhaps the explanation of it all is to be found in the President's request of November 18 that, even though not bought out of lend-lease funds, he be authorized to transfer to foreign governments these admitted "surpluses" the American army has on hand.

I am going to give you here some of the interesting inside information about these army purchases. I shall not make public any information about fighting equipment because I do not want to give away information which might be helpful if it eventually found its way into the hands of the enemy. But, I will set out here some of the information gathered about other kinds of equipment. Before doing so please note that my figures cover only the period from September 1, 1940 to November 11, 1941, and that they do not include purchases by the Navy, Marines or Coast Guard. Each of these branches of the service has a story all its own. Too, it should be remembered army officers buy their uniforms, that the buying is still going on and that the army had much equipment before this current buying spree started. There is not space in this column for all of the figures I gave Congress and appearing in the Congressional Record of November 19, 1941, page 9244-9.

Each Soldier A Baker and Cook? Present strength of the army as authorized by Congress is about 1,600,000 men. The army has bought $3,800,000 worth of white linen cooks' and bakers' coats and trousers, or enough for each man now in the Army.

Mosquito Netting. During the 14-month period covered by my study the Army admits buying more than $8,000,000 worth of mosquito netting. This totals forty million yards or enough to make two strips of netting from Canada to Mexico and two strips from the Atlantic to the Pacific. This would give thirty yards to each soldier.

Blankets bought during this period account for an expenditure of $80,330,991. Raincoats and overcoats cost $30,484,269.

Over six hundred million yards of various kinds of cloth have been bought. This is enough to reach around the earth fourteen times or manufacture 130,000,000 uniforms, one for each person in the United States!

Human blood bought for transfusion purposes in just the six days from October 20 to 25, cost $1,026,250. Significant?

Fourteen million pairs of khaki cotton trousers have been bought. An additional four million pairs of herringbone twill trousers, 240,000 winter combat trousers and $3,947,884 worth of woolserge trousers have also been bought in the last 14 months.

Fifty pairs of socks for each soldier have been bought. The total is 77,807,626 pairs.

Sixteen million pairs of shoes have been bought to put these socks into.

Thirty-two million pairs of cotton drawers, ten million pairs of woolen drawers and twenty million cotton undershirts have been bought as of November 11.

Material for thirty million flannel shirts has been bought and paid for. Almost sixteen million khaki cotton shirts were turned over to the Army recently.

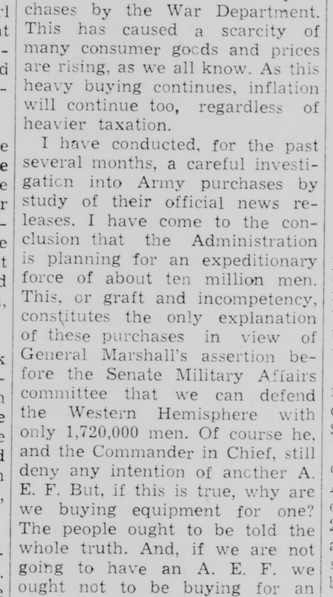

Ten million items of army work clothing have been turned over to the army by manufacturers in the last fourteen months.

Thirteen million neckties and twenty million cotton handkerchiefs were bought in this period alone.

Shotguns, clay pigeons, skeet outfits have cost $55,000. Is this a shotgun war on the horse and buggy front or a shotgun marriage of Democracy and Communism, all on account of a little Monarchy?

Total exxpenditures for these personal items and others of record, for the last 14 months total $766,710,201.50. Yes, it locks as if there might be a skeleton in the closet. Oh, yes, they bought a few skeletons at that; $5,750 worth, to be exaxct.

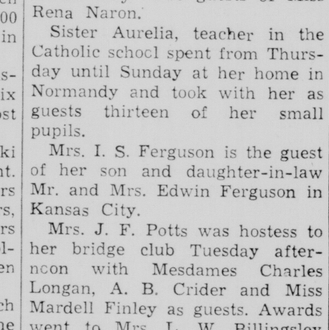

None will object to a higher cost of living for a lowered standard of living if really necessary for defense and if Uncle Sam sets an example by economizing. But, I fear we will, at the end of this emergency, as after the last great war, see a crop of Army and Navy stores at every cross roads trying to unload surpluses on people as war profiteers sit back in ease on bags of money filched from our pockets while we were minding the other fellow's business. But, don't blame me.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dill, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dill and Mrs. Grace Thomas of Warrensburg and Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Dill, of Baltimore, Md., visited Sunday in Pittsburg, Kas., with Mrs. Ola Walters.

In recognition of the fact that Sunday was observed as "Go To Church Sunday" by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges, members of the two organizations attended services at the Methodist church Sunday evening in a body. A most fitting sermon on "The Good Samaritan" was delivered by the pastor, Rev. C. I. Phipps.

Mrs. Paul Smith entertained two tables of bridge at her home Saturday afternoon. The guests were Mrs. Charles Carlin, Mrs. G. L. Reynolds, Mrs. W. E. Walker, Mrs. Mary Patton, Misses Ruth McCune, Ethel Bobbitt and Nadine Fisher. Honors for high scoring went to Mrs. Carlin and low to Mrs. Reynolds. A plate lunch was served.

Mrs. James Comfort went to Bonner Springs, Kas., Friday in response to a message stating that her daughter, Mrs. Ivan DeHaven, had been taken to Bethany hospital, Kansas City, Kas., for an appendix operation. Word received by Mr. Comfort Tuesday stated that Mrs. DeHaven was getting along satisfactory.

D. I. Sevier, Ernest Guthrie and Mary Ellen Ripley were dinner guests Sunday of Mary Catherine Davidson in Kansas City.

Mrs. Lena Rogers returned to Jefferson City Monday after spending the weekend here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McCune and daughter, Ruth, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William McCune and family, near Manilla. Donald McCune, who has been visiting his grandparents for a few days, returned to his home Sunday.

Health Talk Is Given PTA

The Hughesville PTA met at the school on Wednesday evening with a good crowd in attendance. The president, Mrs. B. M. Crago, presided, with the secretary, Mrs. Floyd Thompson, reading the minutes of the last meeting.

Miss Reba Gum, Pettis county nurse, presented Dr. Charles Presnell, who gave an illustrated talk on Dental Health and Hygiene. A song and two recitations were given by the Hughesville grade children, which were followed by two sound pictures presented by Chester Craine, who has charge of the Hughesville film projector. The subjects were Western China and Grey Squirrel. A short talk was made by the superintendent, Snider, on Visual Education, and how the school is availing itself of the opportunity of having both silent and sound pictures of this nature, with subjects that fit in with the school subjects taught in the high and grade classes. Mr. Snider also stated that if any organization would care to, it may use the pictures when they are not in use by the school.

Miss Gum has chosen December 2 as dental inspection day for the grades 1, 2, 3, 4 at the Hughesville school.

Training For Service Before Entry Helpful

Easier When One 'Knows Stuff' Says Letter To Major

The State Guardsman, a publication issued by the First Infantry Brigade, Missouri State Guard, St. Louis, is of the opinion that very often a frank letter from an experienced person tells a better story than that which might flow from the pen of many an author. The Missouri State Guard is attempting, among its duties, to interest particularly those draftees who are classed as 1-A, that they might have some military training before they enter service.

Letter Tells Story

A letter received by Major John H. Hayward, of St. Louis, tells a story the Guardsman believes is of interest. It follows in part:

"Dear Major Hayward:

"Thought I would write a letter to you in regards to what has happened since I was inducted in the Army on March 18, and also to show what benefits I derived from the period I was a member of Company E of the First Missouri Infantry.

"I was inducted . . . and sent to Jefferson Barracks on March 18, and after arrival went through the examination, which, I might add, is very complete, down to the minor details. When a man reaches the end of the line and is given the "go-ahead signal" he knows full well that so far as being a man, he's complete, or good enough for Uncle Sam's Army . . . and that's pretty damn good!

"I was at the barracks for ten days, during which time I massaged the Barracks floor to the gleeful delight of an assortment of non-comms. This delightful form of entertainment went on for some time, together with the art of making up a bed, several lessons of how to act and look like a soldier, etc.

"On our first day of drill the corporal asked the assembled ranks whether there were any among us who knew anything about drill. And right there I began to "see the light"! I told the corporal that I had some experience in the art and forthwith and without further ado, I found myself giving commands instead of taking them, thanks to the 1st Mo. Infantry workout.

"I would like to tell all of the men in the Missouri State Guard, now is your chance to learn the basic drill around which the army tactics revolve . . . and save yourselves a lot of walking, because common horse sense will tell you that it is a helluvalot easier when you know your stuff.

"From then on I could see the point in being able to do something that would save on wear and tear, knowing your right foot from your left, by the left flank from by the right flank, and the difference between to the rear march from forward march, because learning it the army way is pretty tough at times.

"Any man who knows he's going to be drafted and has the chance to go to the armory and learn the drill one night a week and turns the chance down, will kick himself around the camp twenty times when he finds out that those boys who did learn the basic drill get the instruction and command jobs . . . and he's still scrubbing latrines . . . and I do mean scrubbing!

"The Army is woefully short of good non-comms. And the jobs might as well be given to the men from Missouri if they will shift a few more gears and quit slipping their clutch!"

She is also a noted soloist. For a number of years she gave her whole time to singing evangelism. Mrs. Jaudon is at home on the speaker's platform. IT'S A POINTER

The second vertebra of the spine has a finger like projection which extends upward through the first vertebra. This projection is called the odontoid process. Normally this odontoid process is right in the middle of the opening of the first vetebra with a clearance of over one-fourth of an inch on each side. Displacements of either of these vetebrae may cause a slippage of this odontoid process from one side to the other which is very clearly revealed in an X-Ray film.

Dr. Roy Keller

Subluxations in this area may cause very extensive disturbances. The vertebral artery passes through these vertebrae and if they are badly displaced it puts a kink in these arteries and deprives the brain of a part of its blood supply with various ensuing disturbances; it can put pressure (when rotated) on the superior cervical ganglion, which is the largest of the spinal ganglia, and may cause extensive disturbance in parts reached by branches from this ganglion. Some contend that subluxations of these vertebrae may cause pressure on the spinal cord. In any event it is a point producing the most far reaching disturbance in the nervous system with ensuing disease conditions.

By properly adjusting these vertebrae chiropractors restore normal nerve supply to many parts. Normal nerve supply means health.

Dr. Roy M. Keller, 300 West 3rd St. Pres. Mo. State Chiropractic Board. X-Ray Service.

Club Discusses Future Prospects

The South Abell club met for the November meeting at the home of Mrs. Jess Fairfax with Mrs. Kurman Riley and Mrs. Rollie Thomas assisting.

The morning meeting was a discussion of recipes using milk and eggs led by Mrs. Harry Kehl.

The news letter was read by Mrs. Linden Whitfield.

Dinner was served at noon to the twenty-six members present eight children and the following visitors: Mrs. Henry Riley, Mrs. J. L. Cartwright, Mrs. Dan Green, Mrs. R. O. Kuykendall; Mrs. Geo. Fichter, Mrs. Wm. Eickholz and Miss Ida Mae Feeback.

The afternoon meeting was called to order by the president and opened with the club song and parody.

Roll call was answered by each member and visitor present.

The projects for next year were discussed briefly by Mrs. Wilbur Garrett.

Mrs. Rhoads gave a brief but interesting history of Pettis county Some of the facts she brought before the club were: Pettis county was formed from a portion of Pettis, Saline and Cooper counties, organized January 26, 1833, and named for Hon. Spencer Pettis.

The first county seat was located at Georgetown in 1884 and moved to Sedalia in 1865.

The first school district was organized November 6, 1838.

The religious history: The first Missionary Baptist church was established in Pettis county was the Providence church, three miles south of Clifton City on April 4, 1842. The second, which in the Abell community was Flat Creek Baptist church, five miles south of Smithton on September 23, 1846.

The remainder of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. George Fichter, AAA farm chairman of Pettis county.

She stressed the need of milk and eggs in our diet; raising more food on our farms for our own use as well to help in defense; care of the soil, and balanced diets for all farm families. Pictures taken on Pettis county farms and shown by Mrs. Fichter were especially interesting.

The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jess Tuggle with Mrs. Rhoads assisting. This will be the annual Christmas party with the exchange of gifts from Sunshine Pals for the past year. Every member invited to attend.

Fake Accident Ring Cases Be Up This Week

Deliberate Auto Crashes And Self Mutilation Claim

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29—(AP)—The federal government will begin the mass prosecution next week of a coldblooded fake accident ring which operated for 13 years in northern Missouri and collected more than $100,000 on fraudulent claims.

A bizarre recital of planned automobile crashes, deliberate injuries, self mutilations and voluntary amputations is contained in the indictment of 80 persons on mail fraud charges. Sixty-five of them are scheduled to appear for arraignment in the United States district court at Hannibal next Tuesday.

The other defendants still are being sought by postal inspectors who already have gone as far as Detroit and Chicago to make arrests of former Missouri residents.

Dillard V. Mardis, 50-year-old former insurance company executive of Kirksville, is described by the inspectors as the leader of the ring. When he was taken into custody last March at the start of the government's sweep, his bond was fixed at the top-heavy sum of $50,000.

The 95-page indictment, suppressed until this week, has 21 specific counts charging use of the mails to carry out a scheme to defraud and one general count of conspiracy, covering the period from August, 1928, to March, 1941 and setting out a total of 108 overt acts.

Claim Crashes Planned

The indictment calmly recites the wierd account of a farmer who twice permitted the deliberate smashing of an arm and finally underwent a voluntary amputation after healing was prevented by manipulation and injection of acid.

On Jan. 8, 1940, the indictment said, Richard E. Greenstreet, farmer near Kirksville, D. V. Mardis and Arthur Summerfield, a garage owner of Kirksville, staged a planned automobile crash near Greentop. Mardis, it charged, then willfully struck Greenstreet on the arm with an auto crank inflicting injuries for which he collected $271.43 in insurance.

Again on April 16, 1940, it was alleged that Greenstreet, Mardis and Pleasant B. Gray staged a deliberate smashup by driving an automobile into a concrete abutment near Knox City. Mardis, the indictment charged, then struck Greenstreet with a hammer on the left arm near the wrist, fracturing the bones.

Hand Was Amputated

It was alleged that Dr. F. L. Schmitt, an osteopath of Edina, manipulated the inflamed hand and arm to prevent knitting of the bones and injected hydrochloric acid to bring about a physical condition which would necessitate amputation. Greenstreet's hand above the wrist was amputated June 17, 1940.

Maximum punishment for the offenses charged is a prison term of five years and a fine of $1,000 on each of the first 21 counts and a prison term of two years and fine of $10,000 on the conspiracy count.

Suspicions of an insurance company led to the investigation of the ring, which apparently escaped detection for so many years because of the thoroughness of its operations. The automobile accident claims were frequently based on actual injuries, backed by records of hospitalization and medical treatment.

But, the indictment declared:

"Said defendants would represent that automobile accidents had occurred when, in truth and in fact, such accidents had not occurred or had occurred by reason of having been planned and deliberately done.

"Said defendants would falsely and fraudently feign various injuries by inflicting upon themselves and upon each other divers wounds, cuts, scratches and bruises, by striking themselves or each other with hammers, automobile cranks, or other heavy tools and instruments, by inflicting knife wounds and abrasions upon themselves and upon each other by the use of knives, razor blades and similar sharp instruments.

"Said defendants would, in some instruments, in order to augment the personal injuries alleged to have been sustained in such accidents under falsely represented conditions, permit the amputation of a hand, arm, toes and other portions of the body."

Another instance of an alleged voluntary amputation is recounted in the indictment in the case of Lyle L. Foster, a farmer of Trenton, accused of participation in a planned automobile accident near La Plata in September, 1936. Foster's left arm was amputated on Sept. 17, 1936.

The indictment charged that Foster later was involved in a deliberate accident between Novinger and Kirksville, January 22, 1938, when the cars of the co-defendants were driven together. He also was named as a participant in a third staged crash near Bucklin, Sept. 2, 1930. In all, Foster collected $5,846.

Among the defendants are several others accused of more than one purported accident. The indictment said an automobile owned by Benjamin T. Bartlett of Greencastle was involved in an accident Sept. 16, 1935, he was the driver in another Jan. 6, 1936, and was the person allegedly injured on a third occasion, Oct. 4, 1937. Sion Martin of Kirksville also was named as a participant in three different incidents.

The government's widespread investigation of the ring's activities brought the indictment of a number of prominent persons who were alleged to have been involved. They included Dr. M. R. McCullom, Dr. Ralph Stickler and Dr. W. J. Huls, all of Kirksville; Dr. C. H. Van Osdol of Greentop, and Philip J. Fowler, Kirksville attorney.

P-T Council To Meet Tuesday

The Sedalia Council of Parent-Teachers will hold its regular monthly meeting at Broadway school at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The Mutual Aid chairman will present a style show. The garments to be shown will be worn by children, and will show how clothing may be made over. The purpose is to acquaint the people with the work being done by the Aid Center, where clothing is assembled and remodeled, for the purpose of keeping children in school. Each afternoon one of the schools has a group of volunteer women, working in one of the rooms of the old Y. M. C. A. building, sewing, mending and changing clothing collected by the various P. T. A. members.

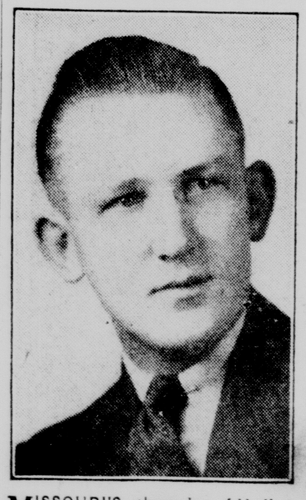

The Council made enough money, serving the banquet for the American Legion at a meeting here recently, to buy shoes, hose, and other articles badly needed.

Broadway school was selected for the style show because of its central location, and Mrs. Paul Zink, council president, extends a cordial invitation to principals, teachers, and parents to attend.

Terns, or sea swallows, are said to have greater "homing sense" than pigeons.

Martin for his seven year record, the boy handled baby beeves and sheep. Cash winnings on his exhibits were $50.75, and his total income $855.75. He showed the grand champion baby beef at the county fair, and took part in judging and demonstration contests. ... As state winner in the annual Thomas E. Navy Trounces Army 14 To 6

The Third Straight Triumph Over The Cadets For Navy

A Scrapping Army First Half Lead Is Shattered In Third Quarter By Middies

By BILL BONI

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29—(AP)—The manpower which had sent Navy into action as a pronounced favorite over Army today paid off in the second half.

Outcharged, outfought and outscored by a scrapping, snapping Cadet eleven for the first two quarters, the Middies came back fresh at the start of the third period and never even let Army get its hands on the ball until they had driven to two touchdowns. That made the final score Navy 14, Army 6, for Navy's third straight triumph in this classic series and 17th in the 42 games that have been played.

No Stopping Middies

There was no stopping the Middies in that third quarter, and there was no getting by, through or over, them for the balance of the half. Army still was in there trying, but it made only one serious threat, a drive to first down on the Middie 17 that ended apruptly when Bill Busik intercepted an Army pass two plays later.

Busik, bowing out of this rivalry together with a whole raft of first and second classmen who will be graduated into the fleet either next month or next June, made his farewell appearance a dazzling one.

He ran and he passed, but most particularly he ran. This 185-pound six-footer from Pasadena, Calif., was just so many pounds and so many feet of twisting, squirming, fighting dynamite that either hit at the holes or made holes where none had been prepared.

Army kicked off to open the second half, and Fullback Sherry Werner, of Reading, Pa., launched the scoring march by taking the ball a yard back in the end zone and coming up to his 31yard line. Then Busik went into action.

'Barnacle Bill' Does Plenty

It took Navy 15 plays to go the remaining 69 yards and Barnacle Bill either ran or passed for all but three of them. He handled the ball on all but three plays and accounted for the biggest single gain by passing to Captain Bob Froude of San Bernardino, Calif., for 27 yards. He threw in the most vital rushing gain, a 15-yard sprint around the Army left side that gave Navy first down on the Army 1.

Busik, knocked out of bounds on that play, also had the wind knocked out of him. Phil Hurt, 195-pound sub fullback from Astoria, N. Y., was sent in, and he exploded through the middle of the Army line for the touchdown. Then in came Navy's reliable Bob Leonard, place kicker from Gainesville, Tex., to kick the extra point.

Once more Army kicked off and once more Navy drove straight down the field, 68 yards this time in 13 plays and a harmful penalty on Army. Busik started the drive rolling with a 20-yard runback of the kickoff, and by carrying the ball into the tiring Army line on three of the next five plays helped take it just beyond midfield.

He was getting a bit groggy by this time, so Coach Emery E. (Swede) Larson sent in 150-pound Howie Clark of San Pedro, Calif., to relieve him. Clark, a speedster, supposedly had hurt his knee seriously in yesterday's final workout.

Clark Shows No Pain

He didn't show it. The first time they gave him the ball he went for four yards and the third time he took it he almost duplicated Busik's touchdown—preparing play by turning the Cadet left flank for 15 yards to the two-yard line.

This time it took more than one play to go over. Army halted Werner and Clark in two cracks at the line and seemed to get a lift out of a 5-yard penalty on Navy. It wasn't any help, though, for on the next play Clark, starting to his right as if to pass, suddenly wheeled in his tracks and outsprinted the Army defenders to the far left hand corner. Leonard came in for one play, and made it good.

That was just about it, except for one last-hope drive by Army from the Navy kickoff. Hank Mazur, Army's hard-fighting triple-threat from Lowell, Mass., set that in motion with a runback of 35 yards to his 41.

Interference on a Mazur pass moved the ball to the Navy 35, and a Mazur aerial to Sophomore Ralph Hill of Santa Fe, N. M., carried it to the 17. But there, two plays later, Mazur was rushed far to the side lines in trying to get off a pass, threw one in desperation and saw Busik intercept it.

Navy Gathers Ground

If it was all Navy, with 202 of its 256 yards gained, in the second half, it was equally all Army, with 119 of its 187, in the first.

In the second quarter, though, Army went to work. It had lost Fullback Johnny Hatch of Fort Sill, Okla., early in the game. But it got along without him pretty well through here.

Once, on a tremendous Mazur pass to Jim Kelleher for 35 yards, the Cadets made it first down on the Navy 30. They lost the ball on downs on the 16, but came right back the second time they got it again. Mazur took a Navy punt on his 21 and slipped it to Hill. The sophomore streaked up the west sideline for 57 yards before Werner nailed him on the Navy 23.

Army Scores In Second

Army lost five for having a back in motion, but then sent Mazur slashing for 13 to the 15. On the next play Hank walloped ADD ARMY-NAVY Spts .... off the Navy left tackle, to be forced out by Clark on the 1. He made two feet on his first try, then turned over the job to Jim Watkins, sub fullback from San Saba, Tex., who on his second attempt belted over the Navy right guard for the score.

Dick Fedon, of Pen Argyle, Pa., Navy's fine center, blocked the extra point try.

Larson, ending his Navy coaching career with three victories over Army (the same number he helped score as a player), fielded two teams that simply wore down Army.. Tackles like giants Gene Flathmann, Bill Chewning and Dick Opp; guards like Vito Vitucci and Joe Sliwka, and ends like Froude, Lars Wangaard and Bob Zoeller were too much for Army to match.

The Cadets, though, gave a noble account of themselves, especially hard working Mazur, and Bob Evans, who played sixty minutes of fine center.

Army tried some "Y" formation plays, usually with a tricky line shift, but they didn't go for much. Still Coach Earl (Red) Blaik can be extremely proud of his team, which wone five games and tied Notre Dame in nine starts, compared to the 1940 record of winning only a minor game opener.

Orange Bowl Bid Given To Georgia

MIAMI, Fla., NOV. 29—(AP)—Georgia will represent the south in the Orange Bowl football game New Year's Day.

An opponent probably will be named Monday, the schedule committee announced.

Committeemen said the choice lies among Missouri, DeQuesne, Texas, Fordham and Penn State.

An invitation was extended to Georgia, and was accepted, immediately after the Bulldogs whipped Georgia Tech today, 21 to0, to conclude a season of eight victories against one tie and one defeat.

The Georgians, coached by Wally Butts, scored 279 points against 59 for their opponents.

They opened by downing Mercer, 81 to 0, and whipped South Carolina, 34 to 6, before being tied by Mississippi, 14 to 14. Sinkwich scored the touchdown that beat Columbia in New York, 7 to 3.

The only defeat came the following week, 27 to 14, at the hands of Alabama.

Since then the Athens team has beaten Auburn, 7 to 0, Florida, 19 to 3, Center, 47 to 6, and Dartmouth, 35 to 0, and finally, Georgia Tech.

Springfield Teachers Snap Southwestern

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 29—(AP)—The Springfield Teachers' college football team nudged Southwestern of Winfield, Kas., here this afternoon, 6 to 0, in their last game of the season.

Gene Rimmer romped across from the 15-yard line on the second play of the second period, then missed the placement, for the only points of the game. Southwestern, operating with a makeshift backfield which featured 220-pound tackle, Vic Bland at the fullback slot, powerhoused to the 9-yard line in the fourth period but two passes from there went astray.

Huskers Upset Dope To Beat Sooners, 7-6

Intercepted Pass By Wayne Blue; 70-Yard Run For Touchdown

BY RANDALL BLAKE

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 29—(AP)—Substitute fullback Wayne Blue picked a Jack Jacobs pass out of the air on the dead run, raced 70 yards to a second period touchdown, and tackle Vic Schleich sent the extra-point kick through the middle of the uprights to give Nebraska a 7 to 6 victory today over Oklahoma.

The game, played under cloudy skies and with the temperature unseasonably warm, gave Nebraska a tie with Oklahoma for second place in the Big Six conference. Each team won three and lost two conference games.

Shy The Huskers

Oklahoma, kicking off and never letting Nebraska get possession of the ball in Sooner territory during the initial period, scored in the last seconds of the quarter. The Sooners, starting their touchdown march from the Nebraska 42, amazed the crowd of 20,000 with their fast stabs into the line.

After Orv Mathews spun through the middle for a first down on the Husker 31, Jacobs passed to end W. G. Lamb on the 16. Jacobs and Mathews slipped through the line to the four, then Joe Golding started wide around end, cut sharply and sidestepped two Huskers en route to the goal.

Jack Haberlein, the Sooners' goal kicking expert who was to try three and miss three attempts at a goal from the field, came in for the try at point. His kick was wide.

Nebraska made its first threat with a march that carried to the Oklahoma 32 early in the second period. But the ball was lost when fullback Vike Francis drove over center for what would have been a first down, then fumbled, guard Mitchell Shaddid recovering for Oklahoma.

An Ill-Fated Pass

A minute later Francis was hurt and Blue came in. There were four minutes left and Oklahoma was pressing ahead when Jacobs' let loose his ill-fated pass. Blue came in fast to take the ball, angled out from mid-field to the sideline and went the 70 yards without a Sooner having better than a desperate shot at him.

Oklahoma came right back downfield, Mathews taking the kickoff and running 45 yards to the Husker 45, from where Jacobs tossed a dandy running pass to end Louis Sharpe on the 29. Another toss was good for first down on the 16, then a third, to Joe Golding, for first down on the six.

Here the Huskers stood fast and Harberlein, with fourth and four to go, tried his first field goal from an angle and with the ball on the 15. It missed by inches.

Haberlein tried again in the third period with the ball being held on the 37. Again he missed by inches. His next try was in the last ten seconds with the ball held on Nebraska's 26. It was the worst of his kicks, being both wide and short. Oklahoma had got down there on two Mathews' sprints and Jacobs' long toss to Bill Mattox.

Tennessee's Vol's Hit The Jack Pot 26 To 7

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., NOV. 29—(AP)—Tennessee's Volunteers hit the jackpot today with a 26 to 7 victory over the bowl-ambitious Vanderbilt Commodores before a homecoming crowd of about 30,000. Vanderbilt was kept in the hole all the time except for the fourth period when desperation passes neted a touchdown.

Southern California Is Outclassed by Washington

LOS ANGELES, NOV. 29—(AP)—Washington's Huskies, outclassed but never outscored, defeated Southern California, 14-13 under a rain-threatening sky today before 35,000 fans in a Pacific coast conference game. Southern California scored its second touchdown in the last seven seconds of the contest.

Pitt Can Talk About Carnegie Tech Now

PITTSBURGH, NOV. 29—(AP)—Pitt salvaged something out of a disastrous season today by walloping its "back yard rival," Carnegie Tech, 28-0, in sun-bathed Pitt stadium before a crowd of less than 20,000.

You Missouri football fans have been elated over the fact the Tigers came through to win the Big Six conference, undefeated, and smashed through a grid season which has rated them among the "Big Ten" of the country. You talk about Don Faurot, their coach, and Harry Smith, assistant. BUT do you know who were cogs just as important as the heads of the department. The backfield coach, the line coach and the Freshman coach?

It has been deeply interesting to read of Harry Smith, incidentally an All-American, who rates plenty of headlines, because he was a great lineman back in California. Harry talks Rose Bowl, because he played in it and it's now his home country—Russellville, down south of Jefferson City, is really the "old home town"—and he would like to show the coast natives just what Missouri is made of. Harry did add plenty of punch to the Tigers.

Now getting down to brass tacks. Herb Bunker is the line coach. Think of the record this year of that line. Not one touchdown has been scored on the first string this season from scrimmage. What other team can make such a boast? He is deserving some credit, I'm thinking.

Bouncing over to the backfield we find Chauncey Simpson. Now the boys did some fine work, but it was Chauncey who kinda gave the boys some idea of how to work with Bunker's gang, henceforth clicking was seen in every game. Hand shake to you Mr. Simpson.

There is John "Hi" Simmons, freshman coach. Did you ever stop to think it is Simmons who has to play kindergarten teacher to these football boys their first year at the university? They incidentally, learn plenty about football during this trying time. To "Hi" goes a pat on the back.

Of course everyone knows instructions are given out by Faurot, who does plenty of figuring on the plays and tells his team what to do and when to do it, while Smith, is one of the main springs who also helps keep the machine running.

So when you members of the "spit and chatter" club sit around on your benches discussing the past season, give those boys a little credit. Learn their names. They are important.

Incidentally it was back on Sunday, November 2, that we kinda let you readers in on a secret. Our sport banner read—"Missouri Looking For A Bowl—it was that 19-0 beating the Tigers gave Michigan State. Yes it was rather an early "flier" but we flew right in on the beam.

There were plenty of guys putting the "rib" on but we took it and are now laughing back. That old saying "those who laugh last laugh best."

Twenty-two little tykes, 8 years old up to thirteen have been given two whole hours of their own in the Y.M.C.A. gym, all because the Pettis County court is sponsoring an athletic program at the "Y" this winter. Certainly mothers and fathers should be proud of the fact their sons desire to take part in the program.

The boys go through various exercises, winding up with running on the track or boxing. They enjoy it and it has already started showing on the lads.

Yes they play from 4 until 6 o'clock in the evening under the strict supervision of four WPA recreational leaders.

Sixty-five boys from fourteen years old up, take over the gym at 6 o'clock and work until 9. They also are getting into the swing and like the program.

You Sedalians who are interested in seeing the boys at their work are invited down to watch them says Thomas "Dolly" Farris, county supervisor of the program.

Oregon State Will Be Host In Rose Bowl

Fordham Choice Of Oregon State For New Year's Game

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 29—(AP)—Oregon State's Beavers, the Far West's cinderella team, will represent the Pacific Coast in the Rose Bowl football game next New Year's Day.

President C. V. Ruzek announc-tonight OSC had been selected for the game by a majority of conference faculty representatives.

Majority For State

Not all votes from member schools had been received at the time Ruzek made the announcement, but the outcome was assured.

The Beavers, rated as tail-enders at the season's start, won the undisputed conference championship today by defeating their traditional rivals, University of Oregon, 12 to 7, while California was upsetting the defending titleholders, Stanford's Indians, 16 to 0.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Oregon State College tonight selected Fordham university as its football opponent in the Rose Bowl New Year's day, the Oregonian reported today.

The newspaper said it had learned of the selection from "an unimpeachable source."

Fordham, defeated only by Pittsburgh this year, has met the Beavers twice in previous intersectional games. Each team won once.

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 29—(AP)—Coming from behind in the final quarter, the orange-shirted Oregon State Beavers overcame a one-point deficit today to defeat the University of Oregon, 12 to 7, win the Pacific Coast conference football title and earn Oregon State its first trip to the Rose Bowl.

A relentless 60-yard drive, concluding with a vicious 28-yard buck and run through center by Sub Fullback Joe Day netted the richest touchdown in Oregon State's history.

As Stanford fell before California, 16 to 0, today's Oregon State victory gave the Beavers a clear title to the Rose Bowl. Getting the bid was expected to be a mere formality at Corvallis tonight, where votes of Pacific Coast conference faculty representatives were tabulated.

For a while in the fourth quarter it looked as though the conference championship scramble might wind up in a four or five way tie as Oregon held a 7 to 6 lead. Had Oregon held on it would have meant Oregon, Washington State and possibly Washington would be cut in for bowl consideration.

But the Beavers came back for their winning touchdown and were on the Oregon five-yard line seeking another as the game ended, whereupon the Beaver subs rushed to the field and carried off the battered and happy gridders on their shoulders.

Harold Flammang Receives Letter

MARYVILLE, Mo., Nov. 29—Harold Flammang, son of M. A. Flammang of Sedalia, was awarded a football letter this week by the Athletic committee of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers' college at Maryville. Letters were awarded to 30 Bearcats, thought to be the highest number of players to receive this honor at one time at the college.

Head Coach Ryland Milner made the recommendations. Under Milner's able guidance, the Maryville Bearcats this season tied with the Rolla Miners for first place in the M.I.A.A. championship.

Flammang was elected co-captain of the football team for next year at a recent meeting of the "M" club. He is a junior this year.

Clemson's Bowl Dreams Blasted by Auburn 27-7

AUBURN, Ala., NOV. 29—(AP)—Auburn's Tigers displayed amazing speed and versatility today to blast the bowl hopes of Clemson, 28 to 7.

The winners, beaten five times, scored one touchdown in each period. They held the upper hand throughout with exception of a three-minute interval late in the third quarter when Big Charlie Timmons led a 70-yard march for the lone Clemson tally.

Golden Gloves Attracts Many Sedalia Boys

Afternoon Classes For Boys 8 Years To 14; Evenings To The Boys Over 14

Golden Glove material this year is the best it has been in several seasons in accordance with the registration list at the Y.M.C.A. the past week. Up until Friday night there were sixty-five boys on the registration list from 14 years old and over and there were twenty-two lads from 8 years up to and including thirteen years old. Several familiar faces in various sporting events at Smith-Cotton high school are seen among the older boys who will vie for the boxing honors of 1942.

This year is the first time in nearly ten years that the Y. M. C. A. gym has been opened to Sedalia's youth and through the Pettis County court it has been opened and the court is sponsoring an athletic program under the supervision of the WPA recreational program.

Plenty of Equipment

Much athletic equipment is being loaned through the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, which newspaper annually sponsors the Golden Gloves in central Missouri. The newspaper already is preparing for the annual tournament and will sponsor boxing shows on which many of the youngsters will appear to wind up the boxing season with the Gloves the first week of February.

Although many of the boys are taking the training, there are a number who have said they did not desire to enter into the Glove competition. A number of these indicated they wanted to find out for themselves as to their ability before emerging into actual amateur boxing contests.

Landers, Saunders, Carver

Cecil Landers, one of Sedalia's well-known amateur boxers, who appeared in the Gloves several years ago has been working out with the boys and indicated he may enter the tournament. Certainly many of those who are in training can learn much from Landers by working out nightly at the "Y" with him.

Roscoe Carver, a star in basketball and football has signed up and is working out nightly. Carver is making his debut in amateur boxing but after several days' workout exclaimed "It's great, I like the training and I feel it will help me to be ready for basketball as well."

Tommy Sanders, who starred in football and basketball with the S.-C. Tigers is working out every night and is liking it more and more each day. Sanders has the appearance and ambition to win in his boxing. He has plenty of what it takes and no doubt he will be a trouble-maker for the Glovers in the tournament this season.

Three Murrays Listed

Dean Murray, twice the bantam weight champion of central Missouri works out regular and is getting in condition for the Kansas City tournament of champions. Murray's two twin brothers, Joe and Ray Murray are making their first appearance in boxing this season. They will enter into the flyweight and bantamweight respectively.

It is expected by the time the tournament rolls around, which is the first week in February, the largest tournament ever to be staged in Sedalia will be on the docket. Marshall is sending several boys, while right here in Pettis county boxers are expected from Hughesville, Houstonia, La Monte, Smithton and Green Ridge.

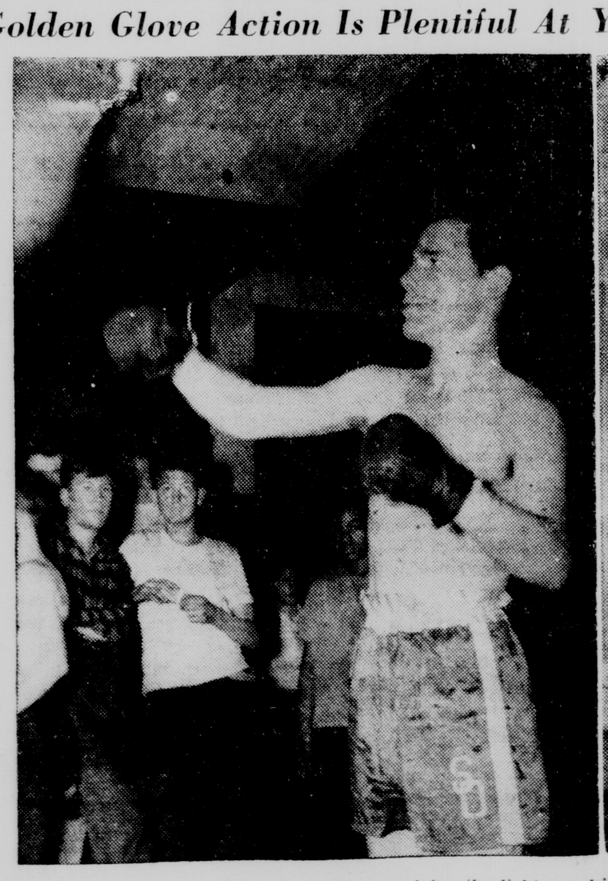

Those boxers from the towns in the county will probably do some training at the local gym. It is open to all boys for training, regardless of whether they reside in Sedalia or out in the county.

An open house is planned for the latter part of this week or the first of next week. At that time, all Sedalia's business men and parents of the boys are invited to attend the event which will be a boxing show to let them know just what is taking place at the "Y".

California In Stunning Victory Over Stanford

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 29—(AP)—University of California closed its coast conference season in glorious fashion today with a stunning 16 to 0 triumph over arch-rival Stanford, the top-heavy favorite, before 70,000 frenzied football fans. The surprising Golden Bears outclassed Stanford all the way.

Golden Glove Action Is Plentiful At Y. M. C. A. Workouts

To the left is Champion Dean Murray giving the light punching bag a stiff workout at the Y. M. C. A. gym during training last week, while to the right is Roscoe Carver, a new comer to the Golden Gloves doing some heavy punching on one of the large and heavy bags at the gym. It is the first year for Carver in the amateur boxing ranks while Murray is a two time champion.

Pacific Picture: a Dark One for Japan

This map shows some of the reasons why Japan's Kurusu and Nomura have conferred long and earnestly with President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull. Prospect of war in the Pacific looks bad for militant Japan in the above pattern. Entirely encircled by probable enemies, she would be bottled up in one of history's most potent blockades. Action might begin on land, with a Japanese attack on Thailand, on British Burma or on China's lifeline, the Burma Road, as shown on inset map. Major decision, however, would likely involve fleets at sea and in the air.

A Rocking Chair Christmas Meditation

Sitting and dreaming and looking afar,
Into the homes where the dear friends are,
Dreaming and wishing that they may find
Joys and pleasures of every kind,
At Christmas.

Joys of the mind, of the soul, of the heart,
And that presents galore will be a part
Of the festive trees that will be there,
With hopes that trees will be every where,
At Christmas.

Praying the spirit of Christ fill each heart,
And of their lives become a firm part,
And as one by one the New Years come
Ushered in with gaiety, fife and drum.
May all have a Merry Christmas.

FSA To Give Aid Stepping Up Production

Planned Farm And Home Aid In Defense Moves

"When a family keeps a record book and carries on farming like business men carry on their business, then it isn't difficult to increase production," said Oscar H. DeWolf, FSA rehabilitation supervisor for Pettis county. "That's why Farm Security families are able to increase their production so readily in response to the government's food for freedom program."

"Approximately 160 farm families in Pettis county will operate their farm during this next crop year in accordance with definitely planned farm and home practices," he said.

"Those who have taken part in the rehabilitation program under the U. S. department of agriculture long enough to have worked out plans in previous years, now have their farm record books to help them plan for future operations," he said. He pointed out that farm families in the Farm Security rehabilitation program make careful plans first, and that the loans are made then to put the plans into actual operation. FSA in making the loans, stresses the importance of farm and home record books.

Meet To Form Plans

Many of the families are now meeting to develop plans, and many are making the plans in their new homes. The services of the county supervisor and the home management supervisor, Oscar H. DeWolf and Miss Virginia Lee Slusher, are available to aid in formulating the plans.

According to most farm plans now being worked out, farm production next season will lean toward more milk, milk products, better home gardens, eggs and meat for home butchering, in line with the Food for Freedom program, DeWolf said. This sort of production has been encouraged by the FSA for some years, and most borrowers now are replacing one cash crop farming with diversification, he said.

In 1940 the average standard FSA borrower in Missouri produced $243 worth of goods for home use, but in the year prior to drawing their first farm plans in connection with FSA loans those same families averaged only $134 worth of such production.

Virtually without exception DeWolf believes, FSA borrowers can be counted upon to plan their farm work to increase the output of items called for in national defense. It will continue to be the policy to produce for home use first; and this will tend to leave commercial production, on borrowers' farms as well as others free to go into channels which eventually will lead to feeding our armed forces as well as those of our allies.

M. U. Tigers Are Still Waiting Bid

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The University of Missouri lent an attentive ear tonight for word of a New Year's football bowl bid but up to a late hour there was no official announcement of any kind.

"I have nothing to say. I haven't been contacted by anybody tonight regarding a bowl bid," said Don Faurot, coach of the Big Sik Conference champions.

This was Faurot's only comment after being told that Georgia has been named for the Orange Bowl and that the Portland Oregonian had reported Fordham would oppose Oregon State in the Rose Bowl.

In evading further comment, Faurot hinted that "something might break" tomorrow.

Salem Takes Title Defeating Calhoun

The 15th annual Versailles basketball tournament, which opened Thursday, came to a close Saturday night with Salem nosing out Calhoun for the championship playoff, by a 22 to 20 score.

Starting the schedule off, the consolation semi-finals were played off with the first game getting underway at 9 o'clock, between Lincoln and Osage, with Osage verily shading Lincoln, by a 28 to 27 victory. Leeton passed Syracuse up by winning, 20 to 16.

In the afternoon games which got under way at 1:30 o'clock, Calhoun set back Tipton, 31 to 7, and Salem defeated Clarksburg, 16 to 10.

The consolation started at 7 o'clock last night. First consolation was taken by Leeton with a 21 to 18 triumph over Osage. Third place was captured by Tipton with a 21 to 17 battle over Clarksburg.

The championship tilt between Salem and Calhoun, the two teams taking the court at 9 o'clock, furnished the thrills and chills of the evening, with Salem coming out with that 22 to 20 victory. It was a closely fought battle all the way.

Silver basketballs were awarded to the winning team, and a grand trophy was given to Salem.

Kansas State Loses After Holding Lead

Arizona, Behind At Half, Plows Through To Win, 28 To 21

TUCSON, Ariz., NOV. 29—(AP)—University of Arizona, co-champion of the border conference, demonstrated a powerful overhead game to defeat Kansas State of the Big Six, 28 to 21, before a homecoming crowd of 10,000 here today.

The Arizonans, trailing 14 to 7 at the half, came back in the third period to take the lead from the Kansans, who slowed perceptibly in the 78-degree heat and relaxed the vigilant watch they had kept on pass-catching Henry Stanton, Arizona end.

The passing combination of Bob Ruman-Boyd Morse clicked for Arizona's first score in the second quarter. Ray Rokey, K-State quarter, then took a punt in mid-field and raced for a touchdown behind fine interference.

The visitors' second score was set up when Ruman fumbled on the Arizona one foot line and Watkins recovered. Wilkins pushed over for the touchdown.

After two threats in the third quarter, Arizona tallied its second touchdown on a Ruman-Morse pass and it was 14-14.

Ruman brought the spectators to their feet a moment later with a 73-yard quick kick that set the Staters back to their four. Then Arizona forged ahead when Stanton grabbed a 54-yard pass from Ruman and scored. After a desperate aerial and running attack in the final stanza, Kansas State crosed the Arizona goal in the last minute when heath, an end, snagged a pass from Rokey on the Arizona 10 and Rokey passed to Bortka, right half for the score.

Mat Matulis scored Arizona's final touchdown on a line plunge after Banjavcic had intercepted a pass and gained the five-yard line.

Jack Irish place-kicked all four Arizona conversions. Williams kicked Kansas State's three extra points.

Holy Cross Loses To Boston College

BOSTON, NOV. 29 — (AP) — Pinned hard against the wall for 58 minutes by Holy Cross' aroused crusaders, the heavily favored Boston College Eagles pulled their objective game out of the fire with a brilliantly executed touchdown play that gave them a 14-13 victory today before a packed crowd of 40,000 at Fenway Park.

It was fullback Ted Williams who halted the Crusaders in their tracks by ripping around his right end for 22 yards and the tying touchdown after quarterback Eddie Doherty had lured most of the Crusaders to the other flank with a perfect passing feint. Frank (Monk) Mazicki, the Eagle's greatest back, boosted his season's point total to 61 with a perfect kick conversion that decided the issue.

Iowa State Errors Benefit Marquette

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 29—(AP)—An alert Marquette football eleven that capitalized on Iowa State errors scored a 28 to 13 victory in the final game of the year for both teams today before a crowd of 8,000.

The Cyclones held Marquette well in check in the early stages but in the final periods Marquette pushed across three touchdowns, all set up by pass interceptions.

Halfback Jimmy Richardson, playing his last game for Marquette, set what was believed to be a new national record in forward passing efficiency as he threw six passes, completing three, to give him a record for the year of 58 completions in 91 throws for a percentage of .637. The best previous record was set by Hugh McCullough of Oklahoma, who had .631 in 1938.

Fordham Also Wants A Nice Bowl Invite

NEW YORK, NOV. 29.—(AP)—Hopped up by hopes of a bowl bid, Fordham's football powerhouse turned loose its manpower in a second half spree today to trample the Violets of New York University, 20 to 9.

After throwing a major scare into the Rams in a second quarter drive that saw them score all their points, it was only a question of time until the Violets had to wilt under the continual pressure their old neighborhood enemies poured out.

So they wilted, slowly but surely, and Fordham chalked up its 17th win in the 22 games in which these uptown enemies have tangled since 1889. and with the victory, closing out a season which saw them lose only one game on an all-major eight tilt schedule, the Rams are reported to have insured themselves of an engraved invitation to one of the New Year's day shindig, possibly the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Federal officials here said they understood Steele was in the dairy business at West Plains.

Steele was not available for comment, his residence at West Plains reporting he was out of the city.

Baylor Buried With 28-14 Score By Hands of Rice

HUSTON, NOV. 29—(AP)—Rice Institute moved into fourth place in the Southwest Conference standings today by burying Baylor 28-14 in a game which would have been remarkably dull except for a few freakish incidents.

A Rice tailback punted for a five yard loss; the two squads had to mill around on the field at the start of the game while forgetful officials sent for the measuring chain and a cottontail rabbit topped off the afternoon by racing down the sidelines just before the contest closed.

Nazis Routed By The Reds From Rostov On Don strike the German flank hard and deep enough to deflect the drive.

Nazis Claim Captures

The Russians were reported sweeping across the ice-paved Volga, driving the Germans out of town after town in the Kalinin sector, 90 miles northwest of Moscow, while the Germans announced in swift succession the capture of three important strong points between Kalinin and Moscow—Volokolamsk, 65 miles from the capital, Klin, 50 miles, Solnetschnogorski, 31 miles.

Meanwhile, on the southern front, Soviet troops battled at the gates of Rostov-on-Don to press one of the biggest setbacks yet experienced by the Germans in two years of war.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters admitted that German forces had fallen back from the principal sections of Rostov, relinquishing their grip on a strategic prize for the first time since the withdrawal from Narvik, Norway, in the spring of 1940.

The big Don river port, with a normal population of 500,000, guards the northern approach to Russia's great Caucasus oil fields.

Biterly accusing Rostov's civil population of attacking German troops from the rear, the Nazi high command marked the city for severe reprisals. Presumably, Nazi troops were evacuated to permit retaliation in the form of bombing, shelling or dynamiting the city.

Countering these reverses, German military dispatches besides claiming the fall of three key points on Moscow's defense arc reported that axis armies in the Crimea had seized the Black sea port of Balaklva, scene of the storied "charge of the light brigade," just a few miles southeast of Russia's big Sevastopol naval base.

With Japan closely watching the ebb and flow of Europe's conflict, the day brought reports of axis reverses from Arctic Murmansk to the sands of North Africa.

News From Fronts

These were the high spots:

1. Arctic—The London admiralty announced that British submarines slashing at German reinforcements en route to the far north around Murmansk had sunk at least eight Nazi troops and supply ships and damaged five others.

Informed London quarters said the German troops were probably being sent to the Finnish port of Petsamo, west of Murmansk, for a winter offensive to cut off Russia's arctic ports —probably including Archangel, port of entry for U. S. war supplies to Soviet.

2. Moscow front—The Russians declared that Soviet Marshal Gregory K. Khukov's armies had smashed back German forces in two key sectors on the south and west, around Stalinogorsk and Mozhaisk, and had driven the Germans from 10 villages in a progressing counter--attack in the north between Klin and Kalini, 95 miles northwest of the capital.

3. Urraine front—The Soviet radio reported that a powerful counter-offensive by Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's southern armies had recaptured the old section of Rostov-on-Don, in a 35-mile advance from the region of Novocherkassk.

4. North African front—The British reported that Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's desert armies were engaged in a great new battle of tanks with the axis, and that German Gen. Erwin Rommel had thrown his last "remaining tanks" into action on a desperate attempt to escape the jaws of a British trap east of Tobruk.

The climactic struggle over the Libyan desert sands began Friday morning southeast of Rezegh, 10 miles from Tobruk, and was reported still raging in full violence "without either side having given or gained ground.

With the clash of steel monsters the heaviest infantry fighting of the 12-day old campaign was reported raging around Tobruk as the British sought to broaden the Rezegh-Tobruk corridor while axis troops attempted to maintain their seven-months-old sieze lines around the Mediterranean port.

Headlong Into British Wall

CAIRO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—German and Italian forces trapped east of Tobruk have reassembled "their remaining tanks" and, in a mighty effort to escape from their encirclement, have smashed headon into a British wall and become deadlocked in a new major tank battle, the British announced today.

The battle began yesterday morning southeast of Rezegh and continued fiercely throughout the day and into the evening, "without either side having given or gained ground," the British middle east command stated in its communique.

The problem of the German Commander, Gen. Erwin Rommel, is to get his once-powerful mechanized and motorized panzer units westward out of immediate danger as efficiently as possible; the British aim is to keep them isolated, break them into smaller units, and annihilate them.

United States Is Awaiting Reply In Far East Crisis

proceeding upon the assumption that American public opinion does not support the President's foreign policy.

As the culmination of a series of conferences, aimed at the maintenance of peace in the Pacific, Japan emissaries here were given a near ultimatum several days ago, reasserting the American policy of opposition to conquest and aggression. The question of peace or war, some government spokesmen have said, rests upon Tokyo's response.

Secretary Hull and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, talked over the far eastern stituation for nearly an hour. Halifax told reporters the British and American governments were cooperating closely and that it was up to Japan alone to make the momentous choice.

At a press conference, Secretary Hull said there were no announcements to be made until Japan's decision is known. He declined to answer a question whether a Japanese attack on Thailand would bring on a major conflict in the Pacific, referring his questioners to the army and navy.

Calls For Purge

TOKYO, Nov. 29—(AP)—Premier Hideko Tojo solemnly and publicly declared tonight the determination of Japan to purge British and American influence from East Asia "with a vengeance—for the honor and pride of mankind."

As the Japanese cabinet met in special session for a second day to consider the United States note outlining America's policies in the Orient, Tojo broadcast this message to the people of Japan, China and Manchukuo:

"The fact that Chiang Kai-Shek is dancing to the tune of Britain America and communism at the expense of able-bodied and promising young men in his resistance against Japan, is only due to the desire of Britain and the United States to fish in troubled waters of East Asia by pitting East Asiatic peoples against one another and to grasp hegemony in East Asia.

"This is the stock in trade of Britain and the United States. For the honor and pride of mankind we must purge this sort of practice from East Asia with a vengeance."

The premier stressed the historical ties between Japan, China and Manchukuo and the necessity of nations of East Asia to work together for mutual prosperity without outside influence.

Many countries, he said, were indulging in actions hostile to Japan.

Bomb Burma Road

The Domei news agency reported from an arm yair base in northern Indo-China that Japanese planes had bombed the Burma Road, the route for U. S. aid to Chungking, for the first time in several months.

The dispatch said one bomber destroyed a Chinese convoy of trucks on the road south of Kunming, Yunan province capital, and nearby warehouses.

The press generally showed concern over the future of Thailand.

The Japan Times and Advertiser, English language organ of the foreign office, said in a front page editorial that Japan must keep Indo-China and Thailand free from "encircling arms"—presumably of the United States, British, Chinese and Netherlands influence.

The newspaper said that only the joint defense agreement with Vichy prevented Indo-China from falling into these arms, so the policy was amply justified.

It added that Japan would be doing a service in preventing "hostile forces" from occupying Thailand.

While Thailand proclaimed neutrality, the newspaper said, the United States and Britain promptly notified their intention to protect that neutrality. (This apparently referred to a report quoting the Thai premier that Britain and the United States had guaranteed his country against aggression. Authoritative London sources have said such an outright pledge has not been made.)

"If that means sending forces of occuption into the country that would create a very serious position," the newspaper said.

There was no indication of whether the special cabinet had decided on any step.

Up To The Japanese

All that observers knew was that the cabinet held its meeting, but they concluded from the fact that the cabinet gave consideration to the note yesterday that the ministers charged with making decisions in one of the most fateful hours of Japan's history were giving prollonged and careful examination to the Washington negotiations.

Observers agreed that the United States had tossed Japan the ball and that it was now up to the Japanese.

In the absence of any guiding policy, the press commented on the feverish crisis in rambling fashion.

(Realistic war maneuvers with a blackout, mock air raid, civic guards chasing saboteurs, explosions, gunfire, parachute flares and simulated fires were held at Hongkong.

(A Reuters dispatch from Singapore said leave of all troops there had been cancelled as "a formal precautionary move in view of the Pacific situation.)

All papers gave prominence to the President's statements indicating the crisis may come to a head before Tuesday.

"American Military Leaders Hold Secret Conference" was a typical headline over the President's conference with General Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Stark, chief of naval operations; Secretary of State Hull; Navy Secretary Knox and War Secretary Stimson.

Military Envoy To Singapore

A broadcast of Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted authoritative Japanese sources as saying institution of a United States air patrol over the Burma Road, China's truck line to the outside world, would be "an example of the most provocative armed aggression."

The British radio reported that Thailand had sent a military representative to Singapore to confer with British defense chiefs. Chungking authorities voiced apprehension that the Japanese intended to attack Thailand or the Chinese southern province of Yunnan in order to cut off the Burma Road.

In either case the defenders will not be fighting alone, these authorities declared.

The Chungking foreign minister, Quo Toi-Chi conferred for an hour with United States Ambassador Clarence E. Gauss.

Chinese reports in Chungking said United States warships were convoying lend-lease supplies to Rangoon for China.

In Hanoi, capital of Japanese-occupied French Indo-China, the governor general, Vice Admiral Jean Decoux, gave a curious interview in which he denied French forces were being mobilized but reserved the right to take "all measures."

Asked if bases would be placed at Japan's disposal in event of war in the Pacific, he said the Colony's role would be settled by the French government at Vichy.

"I would remind you only that Indo-China is part of the French empire," he declared.

Observers at Manila, the Philippines, said Japan is reported to be completing two and possibly four new 35,000-ton battleships.

Manila quarters with close contact with Japan's puppet Chinse regime at Nanking, said German diplomats, under direct instruction from Hitler, are trying to patch up a Chinese-Japanese peace with the idea of freeing Japan's army and air force for other theaters of action.

Sees Possibility Of U. S. Troops In Fighting Next Year

American institutions of ours."

The President, who twice postponed trips to Warm Springs, where he had planned to observe Thanksgiving, said he could not help thinking of those things and the dangers overhanging the country while he was in Washington contemplating his journey a week and a half ago. And he said he might have to go back tomorrow or the next day, but he did not know.

Whimsically the Chief Executive noted that he had been unable to be present here either on the Thanksgiving date he proclaimed or on the traditional date a week later. Tonight's diner was something of a "Third Thanksgiving Dinner" for him.

And, he said, this was a year for thanksgiving escepially because the people in the Warm Springs dining room, in the community, the state and the United States were in a very unique position today. The United States is one of the largest nations in the world, Mr. Roosevelt remarked, and nearly all the other large nations are involved in a war of some kind or normal lives within them are almost completely blotted out or controlled by a dictator.

Leading up to his remark that men from the military and naval academies might be fighting for defense in a year, the President said he had listened to broadcasts of twoo football games this afternoon, between Georgia and Georgia Tech at Atlanta and the Army and Navy at Philadelpha.

"They were great games, run in the spirit of peace," he said.

"And the right kind of national spirit of peace is necessary for the right conduct of either the Georgia game or the Army-Navy game. How many other countries in the world could have things like that going on?"

Conjecture on Words

The Chief Executive spoke informally without notes. Whether his words about the possibility of fighting were based on some undisclosed, specific knowledge of events that may be exxpected in the field of foreign affairs or merely were intended as a generalization and warning was not readily discernable.

Some of those who heard him thought the latter might be true, inasmuch as Mr. Roosevelt has said over and over that America always stood ready to fight for the preservation of their freedom and their rights.

Article On New Locomotives

The monthly issue of the Missouri Pacific Lines Magazine was distributed to shop employees last week which contained many interesting features. Among these was an item concerning the new Eagle locomotives which will be known as the Colorado Eagle, operating between St. Louis and Denver, Colorado.

These locomotives, a pair of two-unit, 4,000 horse power beauties that far surpass anything else on the Missouri Pacific in point of speed and power, were recently delivered to the Missouri Pacific by the Electro-Motive Corporation and were placed in "brake-in" service almost immediately. Their appearance, mechanical superiority and all around smoothness offer a foretaste of the excellence that will characterize the de luxe streamliners which, starting next spring, are to operate on fast overnight schedules between St. Louis and Denver.

Another item concerns the efficency the Missouri Pacific is playing in the National Defense.

There is also an item and photo covering the annual outing of the Missouri Pacific 40-Year Veterans Association held recently in Houston and Galveston, which was the most successful ever held by this group of veterans. In the photo are 203 members and their wives, among these being Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. A. Ford and Mrs. F. W. Hausgen of Sedalia. Mr. Smith is a retired general car foreman and Mr. Ford a retired air brake foreman of the local shops. Also in the photo were D. H. Murphy, Green Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fuller of Warrensburg and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Reeves of Lincoln, Mo.

There is also a photo of a highly efficient power jack developed by Sedalia shopmen for use in straightening structural members of coal cars damaged by clam shells, a method far superior to application of heat and hand jacks. This is being used daily in the freight car department.

Secure Farm For Gorden Family

MONETT, Mo., NOV. 29—(AP)—The brothers, sisters and parents of 19-year-old George Walker Gorden Whose death this week was blamed on starvation will be moved tomorrow to a four-room house on a small acreage nine miles southwest of Monett.

Rent on the farm was paid for a year through a relief fund collected by the Monett Times and members of the committee who administered the fund said enough was left to purchase a cow and chickens.

Committee members said farmers in the section needed occasional help and the father, J. W. Gorden, should be able to obtain seasonal employment when his job on the Camp Crowder construction project ends.

Young Gorden worked at the camp for two days, but became so weak he returned to the family's one room home where he died last Tuesday. Dr. Elburn A. Smith, Barry County Physician, blamed pellagra, terming it "a plain case of starvation."

The old saw "Good things come in small packages" takes a back seat in the face of some of the swell B-I-G containers seen on beauty counters this Christmas. What girl wouldn't like to get the great three-pound box of fine dusting powder seen at right? And wouldn't she have fun, patting it on with the pie-sized lamb's-wool puff the young lady is holding? Another 1941 "giant" gift item is the twenty-five-ounce bottle of cologne at left. The graceful container makes a grand decanter for wine or whatnot, too. The normal-sized bottle, center, points up the magnitude of the new "giants."

Children Present Program

Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, enjoyed one of its largest and most unique and inspiring meetings on Saturday afternoon with Miss Lelia Shortridge, 904 South Grand avenue, as the house hostess, her assistant hostesses being Mesdames Charles L. Hanley, G. A. Sturges, J. C. Longan, B. E. Broaddus and Miss Tracy Berry.

Mrs. Frank S. Leach, regent of the chapter, presided over the meeting. She introduced Mrs. J. E. Golliday of Otterville, who announced that the E. Raymond Peterson Junior American Citizenship Club from the fourth grade of Mark Twain school, would present the first part of the afternoon's program. This club is sponsored by Miss Marian Snell and is one of many such clubs which have been organized by the Osage Chapter in this city and county.

Program By Children

To march music, the group of young people marched to seats that had been reserved for them. The young president of the club, Gene Bockleman, presided like a veteran, although he was so youthful. The children gave the Junior American Citizenship prayer and their pledge of allegiance to the flag, and sang the Star Spangled Banner, with Dorothy Ann Reed as accompanist, and Dona Marie Robinson as song leader. In a clear distinct voice Shirley Kanter gave the Junior American Citizenship creed. Gene Bockleman told of the pleasure it was for the children to be members of the club, composed of over 900 members in Sedalia and Pettis county that is sponsored by Osage Chapter D. A. R. He mentioned their motto, "Home and Country," and in a questionnaire that was given some pertinent questions and answers were presented, one of which was: "What Country For Us?" Answer: "No Country But the United States of America." "What Flag For Us?" Answer: "None but the Star Spangled Banner." The children sang the song that has become so dear to the hearts of Americans—"God Bless America." Shirley Kanter conducted a Dr. Quiz section of the program on how to show respect for the Flag, with the following boys and girls taking part: Milliscent Hale, Rae Carolyn Garrett, Joan Zink, Leo Eickhoff, Ronald Gates and Billy Berry. This remarkable program was planned and conducted entirely by these children.

Mrs. Golloday Speaks

The address of the afternoon was then given by Mrs. E. J. Golloday of Otterville and her talk was following the lines of nation-l defense and the intense patriotism that should really be a consuming factor in our life, at this critical time of our American history. Mrs. Golloday had her subject well in hand and she presented it in an impressive manner with charm, and a patriotic fervor that was contageous.

She emphasized the children's part in the foundation of our future defense and commended the young people who had assisted in the first part of the interesting program. She spoke of how very precious these future citizens of our democracy are to us and of the great responsiblity that the Daughters of the American Revolution have in helping to direct their young minds and their steps toward the building of lives filled with the "American Way of Lift." They should have strong bodies and alert minds she said, that they may think right and be receptive to their opportunities for education, greater intelligence and a strong religious slant towards the goal of better citizenship.

Must Give All

Mrs. Golloday said "It is not enough to buy bonds and defense stamps, but each must give of their heart's best thought and work constantly for our country's best interests, for he who gives only of possessions give little, while he who gives of himself gives all. The American people, young and old, must be prepared to give all, if our country needs such sacrificing service." The defense program is a gigantic task, she said, and we would all like to do some great work towards it but must remember that there are few such large opporeunities but there are millions of small ones right at our door demanding attention.

We cannot be just wistful wishers" but Americans must be doers also. It is true, she said, if we wish for any thing hard enough, it will be ours perhaps, if we but lend our efforts to bring it about. This is what has kept England safe from invasion and we hope this ideal will help to win this war against barbarism.

Women Can Help

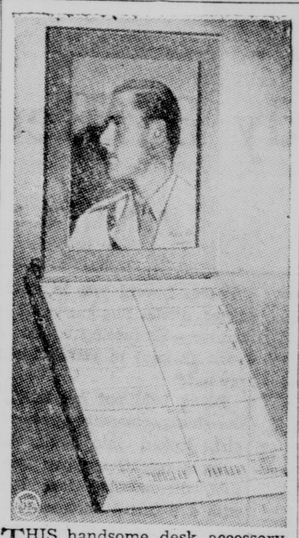

Every woman's club can play an important part and a leading part in the propagation of the American ideals and our national defense. She asked the question: "Are our clubs inclusive or exclusive? Are they fulfilling a democratic purpose?" She plead for a great patriotic movement by the club women of this country that they may be a powerful force and not just a "dead end." We in the inland cannot actually see, perhaps only in imagination, the great factories of the Alleghaney and the Monongahela sections of our country. The Panama Canal section or the great shipbuilding and muntions plants that dot our country, but we can definitely help in this defense of our country. Our Daughters of the American Revolution have done much, as a great patriotic club, but we must do more. We must continue this thrilling work of these Junior American Citizen Clubs, for nothing could be more important than filling the minds of the youth with all of the ideals of that Americanism which inspired our forefathers in the establishment of our beloved country.

Talk By Mrs. Layne

Mrs. Leslie Layne of Otterville followed Mrs. Golloday in a fine talk on "The American Way of Life." She told of the great heritage left to us by our forefathers and of their struggles to create our glorious nation, carved from the wilderness. She spoke of our churches, homes, schools and freedom—such a freedom that we would die for if necessary. Mrs. Layne's address was spiced with patriotism and was enthusiastically received by those present.

During the social hour, following the program, the hostesses served refreshments to the large number of guests present.

Serial Story . . .

Lady By Request

. . . by Helen R. Woodward

Copyright 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Pretty, impetuous Diana Tucker agrees to marry famous writer and commentator Stephen Curt for six months and $10,000, even though she has just met him, for two reasons: Curt, who must marry before he is 35 or lose a $2,000,000 inheritance, is in love with someone who is already married; Diana, having lost her law office job because she resisted the advances of flirtatious Richard Thorpe, does not want to leave the exciting city, return to her farm home and childhood sweetheart Bill Jackson. Ellen Curt, Stephen's stepmother, likes Diana; Mr. Tucker likes and greatly admires Stephen. So they are married with handsome Phil Bruce as best man, and Phil is so obviously attracted to Diana that Stephen lightly warns her against him—until after they are divorced. Her temper flares. "I'll remember I'm being paid for this," she says fiercely.

* * *

ADELA IS RUDE

CHAPTER IX

THE Curt house was on fashionable Green street—a massive, ivy-hung stone mansion set in the midst of beautifully kept lawns. Diana knew that people who lived in Green street had lived there all their lives. No mushroom development, this, but a sturdy, steady growing with the town itself. Stephen Curt had never lived anywhere else. Seeing his home, Diana learned more in a moment about the man than had been possible in all their previous short acquaintance. She felt more of a stranger, an outsider, than ever before in her life. She thought of the simple dining-sitting room at the farm and of Stephen's easy acceptance of their ways. She'd be equally adaptable in his home. She resolved it fiercely.

Stephen introduced her to Larkin, the butler, just inside the great entrance hall. Larkin was old and dignified and looked at Stephen with adoration. He led them into the library where warmth from a log fire penetrated to the far corners of the big, book-lined room. As they crossed the hall Diana glimpsed the elegance of the drawing room—a white grand piano, a blue brocaded sofa, soft, thick taupe carpeting, an Adam fireplace and glittering chandeliers.

A girl was standing by the fireplace in the library. A slender, intense-looking, dark-haired girl. As little like Stephen as could possibly be imagined. Yet he said, "Diana, I want you to meet my sister, Adela. She knows all about our—er—arrangement and she's very grateful to you for helping me out."

Diana held out her hand, felt the strong, claw-like grasp of the girl, looked into dark, hostile eyes, a resentful gypsy face. A thin, discontented face it was, with a petulant expression about the lips. Adela was dressed in the height of fashion, but with an appalling lack of taste, in clothes which did absolutely nothing for her vivid personality. Diana sensed that Stephen was a little nervous, that he was being very careful in giving Adela her cue as to how she was to accept her new sister-in-law. She saw white teeth flash in a cruel, red mouth. The voice was too sweet, too friendly.

"Welcome to the ancestral mansion," Adela said in her peculiar, high, mocking voice. "I do hope you'll be able to stick it—until you've earned your money!"

Stephen flushed darkly, angrily, but Diana said quickly, "I always try to be efficient in any of my jobs."

The eyes of the two girls flashed and held and after a moment Adela's fell.

* * *

LATER Stephen led Diana to the great carved stairway where Frieda, who was to be her personal maid, waited to show her to her room. Stephen said, his hand on her arm, "Please don't mind Adela. She's young—and spoiled. She's had her own way so long."

"And may continue to have it for all of me," Diana said crisply, then felt sorry for him. She smiled briefly. "Don't worry about me. I'll get along. Remember, I have red hair."

He stood there watching until she disappeared with Frieda in the upper hallway.

"I'll have to be clever—to stand up to that girl," Diana was thinking. "She knows so much more than I do about this sort of life. She'll humiliate me if she can. She's taken a dislike to me. I must be very clever."

Frieda led her into a wide, beautiful room done in blue and silver. A matching bath could be seen through a connecting door. "This will be really mine for a few months," Diana thought, thrilled as any girl would be at so much beauty and luxury. The picture of the only two other rooms she had had came into mind—the cold upstairs room at the farm, and the bare little cubicle at her recent boarding house. She ran gratefully to the bright fire sparkling on the hearth.

After a moment she turned impulsively to Frieda, a middle-aged, kind-faced woman, and held out her hand. "Can't we be friends?" she asked in her quick, impulsive way. "I don't know much about life as the Curts live it. I'm sure you must have been here a long time. I'm going to need a lot of help—and if you'll be on my side, I'm sure I'll get along."

* * *

FRIEDA opened her eyes widely and looked into the flushed, beautiful face. The news that the young master was bringing home a bride had excited the servants greatly, and Frieda knew that she was being envied this first intimate view of the new Mrs. Curt. But she had not expected such open overtures of friendship. She smiled delightedly and her hand-clasp was firm and reassuring. "You may count on me at any time, Mrs. Curt," she said, pleased and friendly.

"One up on Adela!" Diana was thinking triumphantly. "Frieda will tell me what to do." And the serving woman had been the first to call her by her new name. Mrs. Stephen Curt!

Now Frieda walked to the dressing table, took up a slender jeweler's box, handed it to Diana. "Mr. Stephen asked me to see you got this," she said, smiling.

Diana's fingers lifted the clasp. A glittering diamond bracelet met her eyes and on Stephen's card was written, "From the very grateful groom on your wedding day." Stephen had forgotten flowers, but he had remembered in a more substantial way.

It was the most beautiful thing she had ever seen. Diana lifted it, her eyes filling with quick, appreciative tears. He'd wanted to do something kind, to make her feel his concern for her the moment she entered this room that was to be so intimately hers. Her heart lifted. She would make herself happy and gay and contented. She'd never let Stephen Curt regret his bargain.

Which reminded her of Phil Bruce and Stephen's words concerning him. She found that she was still clasping the foolish little valentine bouquet, and opening one of the dresser drawers, she laid it very carefully inside.

Post-War Treaties May Change Danzig Status

IT is slightly more than two years ago that Adolf Hitler issued a proclamation which incorporated the former Free City of Danzig into the Third Reich to mark the city's tenth change of sovereignty in 800 years.

The stamp above, issued in 1935, pictures a gate to the city that was frequently overrun by marauding armies which coveted the fine harbor and fertile surrounding fields. The surtax is for winter charity.

A thousand years ago the city was a peaceful Polish fishing village, Gyddanizc, at the mouth of the Vistula river. Pomeranian dukes captured and fortified the city in 1150; it was returned to Polish domination in 1282.

Teutonic knights seized the city in 1308, but their rule lasted only until 1466 when the territory was returned to Poland. In 1772, when Poland was partitioned for the first time, Germany absorbed the hinterland but left the city more or less free. But in the second Polish partition in 1793, Germany absorbed the city as well.

Napoleon restored Danzig to free city status for the seventh change. In 1814 it was returned to Germany and remained a part of the German empire until World War treaties made it Poland's outlet to the sea.

THE centenary of the birth of Jose Manuel Estrada, Argentinian writer, orator, diplomat and educator, will be commemorated with a new issue. Although the hundredth anniversary date will not be until July 13, 1942, the stamp bearing his portrait will be released early in the new year. Estrada died in 1894.

Wheat And Corn Both Score Advance

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(AP)—Grain prices virtually wiped out all of the week's losses in a general advance today that at one stage carried wheat up as much as 2 cents and soybeans almost 3 cents.

Buying based principally on modification of the price control bill before passage by the House and upward revision of official parity prices accounted for the strength, traders said. Early gains were reduced later due partly to renewed selling of December contracts on which delivery can be made beginning Monday.

Wheat closed ¾ to 1 cent higher than yesterday, December $1.14 to $1.14⅛, May $1.19⅞ to $1.20; corn, ¼ to ½ up, December 73⅝, May 79⅞ to 79¾; oats ¼ up; rye ¼ to ⅝ higher and soybeans 1¼ to 2⅜ higher. Lard was 2 to 10 lower reflecting hedging and selling on delivery intentions.

Stocks Take A Further Decline

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—The stock market today emerged from a bad week and an equally poor month with recovery inclinations lacking in most departments.

The list again had to contend with the grave U. S.-Japanese crisis and widespread tax selling and, while cheering dividends and other favorable business items were plentiful, they were not sufficient to offset the general financial skepticism.

Irregular tendencies prevailed at the start and at the close declines of fractions were in the majority. Modest plus signs, however, were pretty well distributed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 at 38.8, another new bottom since June 11, 1940, and on the week showed a net drop of 1.2 points. For November the decline amounted to 1.6 points. It was the seventh successive session in which this the composite had been unable to register an advance.

Dealings picked up at intervals and the two-hour volume totaled 40,600 shares, largest for any short day since December 28. It compared with 364,270 a week ago. Pressing tax offerings helped put the six-day aggregate to more than 4,600,000 shares, a peak since last June. Dealings never fell below 800,000 shares on any 5-hour stretch.

Among stocks American Telephone and American Can again stepped into new low ground for 1941. On the retreating side also were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Chesapeake & Ohio, Great Northern and Eastman Kodak.

Bonds were as mixed as stocks.

Wise Christmas Gift Givers Will Do Yule Shopping Earlier This Year

"Christmas comes but once a year!" Think of it—365 days between last Christmas and the one just ahead, which you want to make such a gloriously joyful day for everyone dear to you, just because it does come but once a year.

Yet how many of those 365 days have already passed—how few remain—making this high time for all gift shoppers to be reminded:

PLAN! SHOP! WRAP! AND MAIL . . . EARLY!

The shopper has much to gain by early purchasing this Christmas—not only in terms of avoided last-minute rush; forgetfulness of no one; and arrival of gifts at their destinations by Christmas, not disappointingly after.

Still more important is the fact that by shopping early you are most likely to guarantee finding precisely what you want to get, to give to each and every one on your gift list.

By shopping early this year, you will be dutifully recognizing the fact that demands on all desirable gift merchandise are great, and that the quantity of some has of necessity been limited this year in direct ratio to the needs for which all industry is called upon.

EVERYONE'S BETTER OFF, WHEN YOU SHOP EARLY! Those who receive—the starry-eyed boys and girls; the dear folks back home; the boys far off in Army, Marine, Air Force and Naval service; all the sisters and brothers, uncles and aunts husbands and wives, co-workers and employees; the cop on the beat; the postman; the milkman. They'll all get more appreciate, useful gifts, when by early shopping you give yourself ample time to plan and choose carefully.

Those who serve—the salespeople in the stores; wrappers, and truck drivers; the post office workers, and the postman who make the very final delivery. All will have a merrier Christmas, because you shop early, distributing their work evenly over a period of time, not burdening them with a mad rush which will leave them (and you) too weary to really enjoy Christmas thrills, fun and gay participation.

SHOPPING'S DOUBLE JOY WHEN YOU DO IT EARLY! And Santa's Board of Directors is on hand, cheerfully ready to guide you shopping all over town.

Once the shopping's done well in advance, there's so much more time to be devoted to devising gay wrappings with tinsel and bells, elegant boxes and papers—over which the final wrappings go clearly addressed, ready to be mailed away for and ships where our boys in service are stationed.

Shopping's easiest of all—when you do it right from your easy chair, with the aid of this Gift Directory, chock-full of inspiring stories; thrillingly true-to-life pictures, and helpfully informative ads which provide a gift answer to every question posed by your gift list.

This is a time when all of us are economy minded, and the early, well informed shopper will be able to give gloriously, generously, yet realize greatest economy.

Now is the time to begin to HIDE AWAY A GIFT TODAY AND EVERY DAY 'TIL CHRISTMAS!

Local stores will cheerfully arrange with shoppers who want to pay week by week, between now and Christmas, even though they may not choose to avail themselves of more extended Time Payment plans.

Santa Proclaims Gift Season Open

Welcomes All Shoppers To Brilliant Christmas Displays In City Stores

Old St. Nick Arrives Here Early To Help All Make This a Good Old-Fashioned Yuletide

BY Santa's own proclamation, Christmas has begun—the doors of brilliantly-decorated stores in Sedalia open to welcome the early Christmas shopper!

Though December 25th is weeks away, tomorrow's the day Santa turns the key that will reveal a citywide display of wonderful All-American-made gifts to be joyously given in his name Christmas Day.

Scheduling his arrival well in advance of the year's most important gift-giving date, Santa relies on a large staff of emissaries whose sale and merry function is to help each and everyone celebrate in the good old- fashioned American way.

Personal Invitation for All

Man, woman and child—all are personally invited to visit the stores tomorrow, and view their exhibits of ceiling-high stocks of gifts more useful, more desirable and more wonderful than ever before.

Having laid the groundwork that will smooth your path for early shopping, Santa and his staff are ready to help you enjoy a Christmas free of last-minute rush—to help you plan leisurely, convenient solutions for your biggest and smallest gift-buying problem without lost time or effort.

Against a backdrop of scintillating Christmas lights; decorations in keeping with the cheerful spirit of the season; and store settings designed to make shopping carefree, literally thousands of gifts for all possible ultimate purposes stand waiting for the practical, the sentimental, the old-fashioned and modern giver, at prices well fitted to every budget.

Toyland itself is a wonderland to delight all ages—stocked with wheel toys, dolls, educational toys and fun makers wishful boys and girls have set their hearts on getting!

Gifts for Home Sweet Home

The grown-up too, from young marrieds to granddads and grandmothers have a world of gift thrills in store this Christmas! Gathered from all over America, they can be seen and selected from in our local stores.

Gifts to make home sweet home more attractive, convenient and hospitable. Gifts that are a woman's idea of luxury with a flair for the practical. Gifts to make a man sit up and take notice of what smart new things there are to wear, and help him enjoy his hobby.

Endless assortments are spread to be picked from, wrapped and delivered in time for Christmas happiness of the most heart-warming kind.

Practical Gifts

There are eminently practical, approved gifts especially designed for the men serving our nation's defense in army, navy, marine and air force. It is particularly the gift-shopping for them which should be done first—so that packages to be mailed to distant camps or ships will have adequate time to reach their destination and not come saddeningly late!

All shopping in fact, had most wisely be done early this year—because defense requirements have made demands on industry which have resulted in limited production of some metallic merchandise. First to shop for them will not be disappointed.

Even the man who is squeamish about gift choosing will find it has been made easy and convenient for him to shop early without confusion or embarrassment.

Shop Early

Be on hand tomorrow to see everything wonderful in store for you when Santa displays before your shining eyes our city's most brilliant Christmas gift display.

This Christmas above all, you have every reason to SHOP EARLY!

Be Safe

Choose to light the Christmas tree in your home electrically this year and be safe from fire hazards.

Use This Section To Help Choose Gifts for All

Consider this story, picture and information-packed Gift Section your citywide shopping guide. It is published at this early date especially to help you find suggestions in answer to every shopping query.

Read its pages in the comfort of your arm chair. Use it to plan with: then use it to shop from all season, while you tuck away a gift a day..... and until the very last gift has been bought for the lowermost name on your shopping list.

Christmas begins tomorrow!

Match For Her

A Christmas gift that will gain all year usefulness, is the one that's a protection against wet weather. Spring and summer, fall and winter—rain or snow call for practical, cheery clothes.

Many umbrellas and raincoats have been made to match—some of the raincoats with detachable hoods.

Pliofilm, oiled silk, waterproofed cottons, rayons, parachute cloths and gabardines are types of fabrics in which these wet weather styles are made.

Since many fabrics from which raincoats are made, are required to outfit men in Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force—such a gift seems doubly desirable to the "civilian" this Christmas.

Colorfully Wrapped Packages for Men In Service Rank First On Every Gift List—This Christmas

PUT THE MEN IN SERVICE AT THE TOP of your list for gifts this Christmas. Send them several gaily-wrapped packages, one of which should include a sweater you have knitted yourself. The soldier at the right is wearing a V-neck sleeveless pullover that is a favorite among most men and is specially recommended by the Citizens Defense Committee.

Portable Radios, Watches, Shaving Kits Listed Among Gifts Boys In Service Want

Here Are More Suggestions From Santa, Based On Advice Of Army, Navy, USO; Most Important Of All Is Package From Home

You can bank on it that the army, the navy, the marines and the USO are well under way with plans to make this Christmas a merry one for all the boys in the service. But you can also rest assured of the fact that the biggest thrill of all, that those boys will get this Yuletide, will be wrapped in packages on which the return address is HOME.

Choosing gifts for men in the service is not so difficult a task after all says Santa Claus after prolonged consultation with the officials who know. The lives the boys are now leading have changed to the point where their desires are easily defined.

The gifts should be useful, contributing to their comfort, their entertainment and also to their insatiable appetite for sweets. The gifts should be as compact and as efficient as is their new way of life. Here is a list that will help you make your selection.

RADIO—He may have music—wherever he goes, if you remember to send the battery operated model radio in preference to the plug-in type.

SHAVING KIT—The compact leather case packed with all shaving needs even to an unbreakable mirror would prove most welcome and useful.

WRIST WATCH—When giving a watch, check as to whether it is dustproof, waterproof, and perhaps most important of all—shockproof. A reliable make with a second-hand that is guaranteed to keep accurate time is the only type watch to consider giving a soldier.

LUGGAGE—Every man in the service gets leave, and he'll travel in style with a trim suitcase that does not take up too much room in camp, yet will hold all essentials needed for the longest leave granted.

WRITING KIT—For use in limited quarters, give a writing kit, that holds not only writing paper, but pen, pencil, bottle of ink, and blotter, all zippered neatly into one leather case.

FLASHLIGHT—There is a diversity of choice in flashlights, and although the hand variety is most popular, there are new types that clasp around the wrist or buckle onto the belt, thus leaving both hands free. Have his name engraved on it.

CAMERAS—To give a camera is to assure enough pictures of the boy who has gone away. When giving this gift be sure to include a good supply of films.

SCARFS—The best and only to consider when giving a scarf or other wearing apparel, is the traditional army color, Olive drab. For added warmth make the fabric choice wool and send gloves to match.

HANDKERCHIEFS — Most army men never seem to have enough. Choose white, durable, monogrammed handkerchiefs.

EAR MUFFS AND WRISTLETS—Where the weather is cold ear muffs and warm wristlets will help keep icy blasts of wind from creating too much havoc with personal comfort. If possible, buy them in Olive Drab.

PIPE, CIGARETTES—If he smokes, good gifts would be cartons of cigarettes; a pipe with it's own pouch to hold tobacco; and also a huge box of pocket matches to keep him well supplied even after Christmas.

CHRISTMAS BOX — A box filled with all kinds of sweets and good things to eat would prove a welcome treat in any camp. Candy, crackers, cookies and to top it off, that symbol of masculine delight—chocolate cake—will bring some of the luxury of home to an army bunk.

Most amazing of all about the list of gifts for the boys in the service, they may be selected conveniently from among the wide stocks of any number of stores in Sedalia. There's no need to worry about where to get something The only thing to be concerned about is buying them without delay and mailing them off to the boys early,—very early.

Make Packages For Service Men, Do Them Honor

Package wrappings for the men in the service should be a tribute both to their own patriotism and to their special branch of the service.

With this in mind, a wonderful variety of patriotic seals including golden eagles, a big silver battleship on a blue sea for the Navy men and the Statute of Liberty on a shining star, have been created.

There are U. S. flag seals in all sizes and even a Union Jack seal for the Christmas packages of your friends in the British services.

For our own men there are three very special seals representing each branch in our armed services.

The Army seal is a little figure of an Army private in his tan uniform.

The seal for the Navy is a sailor in his blue service suit, and the Air Corps has a seal of an aviator in uniform.

Needlecraft Gifts

Needlecraft is a fine art engrossing thousands of women who enjoy decorating their homes and making useful things, such as sweaters and socks for soldiers overseas.

The knitting, crocheting, embroidery or needlepoint enthusiast will dote on materials with which to work. These include needles, yarn, patterns, instruction books, and attractive bags or boxes to keep their work safe and clean.

Cutest gadget of all for the knitter, is the transparent yarn holder, ball shaped; through which can be seen the quantity of yarn still left to work with. A hole through the top draws the yarn for use.

If The Lady Smokes

China, camouflaged as French tile comes in the form of sentimental ash trays covered with tender saying. They come in all kinds of clever shapes—ideal for her boudoir, but she'll no doubt display them where everyone can see.

It's Really Not a Gift Until Gaily Wrapped and Sealed

Colorful New Papers And Ribbons Will Help Make Every Package Say Merry Christmas

Down through the ages gifts have been wrapped for presentation, whether it was in the aromatic leaves of antiquity or the beautiful papers of today. The feeling of expectancy and suspence that is created by colorful and charming wrappings add to the joy of both the donor and recipient.

Your gifts, when they arrive at their destination, should gaily sing out the news, "Merry Christmas to You!" And the happy notes of their song are easily assembled. Bright imagination, colorful paper, brilliant ribbons, simple, but charming labels and seals are the notes that make up the melody.

The more exciting your wrappings, the more you will enjoy giving your gifts, and the more enthusiastically they will be received. But naturally you are not going to wrap up a gift for that sophisticated cousin of yours just the same way you would wrap a gift for your great grandmama.

A gift to your pastor should be dignified while one to a young nephew or niece should be colorful and amusing.

Your Christmas cards are on expression of your own personality, but your wrapped gifts must harmonize in character with the tastes of the person receiving them.

This season you will find a wealth of colors in papers, ribbons, seals and tags. The traditional red and green of Christmas is still high fashion, but in muted dull tones. For instance, dark rich reds combined with deep forest green is smart and exquisite. Plain colored papers of dull finish are made glamorous when tied with sparkle ribbon and decorated with gummed metalic stars.

Children's gifts especially, are fun to wrap and there are endless possiblities for making theirs amusing packages. A funny clown cut from decorated crepe paper and pasted on a plain glazed paper, and tied with strands of pulled crepe paper, will be amusing to make and exciting to receive. Decorated crepe paper provides many designs which, when placed on a package, will delight any child.

There are a few simple rules to remember when wrapping a package. Never try to use too much paper. Have just enough to surround the box, letting it lap over about 1½ in. on the bottom and wide enough to extend down about half way the depth. Don't try to tie the bow out of the ribbon surrounding the box. Make your bow separately and tie on later.

Put thought and imagination into your gift wrappings. You will be gratified by the results and the reception your glamor packages receive.

Here's A Gift That Pays Off Double

Double usefulness can be had from one of the new wallets to be found for Christmas giving. In sizes for men's pockets and women's purses, it features a middle section which "for everyday use" can be crammed with auto license, social security card and endless cards, memoranda, etc.

This middle section can be removed however, so the wallet doubles for formal use, sleek and flat.

Mail Gifts Early Says Uncle Sam

There's A Very Special Reason This Year—In The Service

With the bustle of Christmas upon us, and constant reminders awakening us to the fact that there is really, but a very short time left for gift shopping, Uncle Sam is moving into action through his far flung postal department, to act as the link between friends and relatives who live in different cities.

This year as always he broadcasts advice that gifts be mailed early.

But he adds a special caution to all relatives and friends of the thousands of young men who are now in the service of their country.

Christmas packages for them should be mailed not only early, but first.

In some instances the destination of packages addressed to soldiers in camps and sailors on ships, and pilots in the air forces, may change even as the package is being mailed and Uncle Sam must have a little time in which to reroute the package if it's to reach that man before Christmas.

To the boys in the service, even a letter from home is important. Consider then, how disappointing may be the Christmas day of those to whom packages were mailed too late.

Early As Possible

Postal authorities are asking relatives and friends of service men to get their gift packages into the mails at least two weeks before Christmas day and if possible earlier.

The Christmas time burden of the postmen is expected to be unusually heavy this year. This increase is not hard to understand. In addition to the number of men in the service to whom packages will have to be carried on time, the great increase in employment which will make it possible for more people to have gifts, is expected to add a tremendous load.

With this in mind, more postmen in addition to the regular staff will tread the rounds this year.

If you are mailing a gift to some one in the service tie it securely with heavy twine or rope, the postoffice advices. This does not mean that packages cannot be wrapped colorfuly. Just take the gaily colored package and wrap it in an outside covering of (preferably) heavy brown paper.

Address Carefully.

Be sure also to print clearly the full military address of the man to whom you are directing your package, together with your own return address.

The accuracy of the addressing, the care in wrapping, and the early mailing that is urged upon you by the postoffice department in mailing gifts to service men, is advice that you can well heed in sending packages to friends and relatives who are not in the service.

This Christmas season is going to be a busy one. It is going to put a heavy burden on the shoulders of the postman. He needs your help.

Help Her To Cut A Figure On Ice

To the girl who lives on ice skates, a velvet or wool jersey, short skirted outfit is the most wanted Christmas gift. Especially nice are the skirts lined with print challis or bright cotton that pertly waves to the public on turns.

If she goes for after skating refreshments, include a blouse to be worn under her jacket—matching the lining of the skirt, or in a contrasting color for unlined skirts.

If a father uses slang, his wife says he's setting a bad example—if he doesn't, his kids think he's a back number.

Business Girl Knows What She Wants For Christmas

Since this is a year when "practicallity" must share a place right beside "sentimentallity" as the essence of the Christmas Giving, the Yuletide lights brightly on the great and growing "business girls."

Ever stop to think how many of those charming efficient and practical, but nevertheless feminine, young women there are among our friends and relatives?

Each of them know, pretty well right now what she is going to buy with the fund of one or two weeks salary she has piled up in a Christmas Savings Club, for mother, dad, boy friend, girl friend, and boss too, if he's the right kind of guy.

From her beau, she wants—as you might have expected—jewelry and preferably an engagement ring. Pin, clip, watch bracelet, necklace, compact, perfume, handbag, gloves, luggage, will do. But if he's in the service she expects to give more than she gets.

She would like his picture under any circumstances.

From mother and dad she lists gloves, perfume, jewelry and all sort of clothes like sweaters, blouses, slippers, housecoats, shoes, robes, lingerie and Nylon hosiery. She'd like records too if she has something to play them on.

So the family just can't get too practical to suit a business-girl daughter.

Anti-Freeze Wear

The winter sportswoman—and her less active sister who has trouble keeping warm—will luxuriate in winter underwear such as vests, shorts and "longies" in bright red, green or royal blue. Knitted of cotton, some part-wool, they're comforting to wear.

Pieces Of Silver

A charming gift thought with an eye to the future—is that of a complete setting-for-one in silver flatware. Then the betrothed, the bride, or long-established hostess can complete the service over a period of time adding complete settings and decorative serving pieces.

Nice For The Lovelorn

If the object of her affections is "in abstentia" until his next leave, give her a small gilt locket to pin on her lapel by day and to stand up on its easel near her bed by night. Added touch of thoughtfulness—adorn the locket with the insignia of the service her beau is in.

Oh Say Can You See?

If his morning shave is a struggle—he'll be grateful for a specially made shaving mirror all his own which has the added advantage of fluorescent lighting at its base.

Twinkle Little Star

She can be granted the center of the stage on Christmas morning with a jersey shawl deluged with sparkling sequins in a wild riot of color—the more riotous the nicer!

Evolution

Charles Darwin was not the originator of the evolution theory. His grandfather believed in it, as did several other men. In 1801, eight years before Darwin was born, Lamarck published a book on the subject.

Largest East of Mississippi

Georgia, with an area of more than 59,000 square miles, is the largest state east of the Mississippi river. Florida ranks second.

There's always someone who would like to have a picture of you for Christmas this year.

It has been estimated there are 45,000 totally deaf persons in the United States.

MILITARY CHRISTMAS. Canteen shaped soap has a khaki rope to slip over the head to eliminate the disappearing act. A bristle bath brush completes the set. Great little gift for the service man.

COMBINATION GIFT—brief case and overnight bag for the traveling executive who needs both in one.

Make Quality the Test for Gift Chosen to Give Him This Year

Something To Wear Is Safest Bet

Base Your Selection On His Tastes, Not Yours, To Please Him Most

This is the time of year when every woman has many men on her mind—and what to give them for Christmas is her all-absorbing problem.

Ever since Adam—grabbing the nearest wearable thing has seemed to many, men's idea of being well-enough dressed. Which is one reason why women feel it their especial duty as well as their pleasure, to decide on "something he can wear" as the wisest, gayest, most practical gift choice for every man.

There's dad: family breadwinner. Even though this year has fattened his pay envelope, he still leaves himself for last when the budget's divided for the family wardrobe

Sons, grandsons, brothers, sweethearts and husbands. Each deserves something special — something with which he'll be really pleased!

Pleasing men, however, is a problem. Practically at gift buying time when a woman's good judgment is likely to teeter on the brink of something that appeals to her own sense of whimsy or love of color, rather than something he'll feel safe—and delighted—in wearing when facing the boys at the office the day after Christmas.

Solving the gift-for-a-man problem resolves itself down to a simple matter of logic, once a few details are known. What's his work, his idea of fun? Does he have a hobby? What kind of friends does he entertain? And for all practical purposes what size does he require in the wearing apparel that suggests itself for Christmas giving?

Sample Man!

For instance—a mental picture of brother-in-law John, drawn up before Christmas shopping, might be something like this:back-of-a-desk executive; night clubber; photography fan; gay, informal friends; wears size 15½ shirt; 39 suit; 7½ hat; 8 gloves; 9 shoes; 34 underwear, etc.

If that information doesn't make it easier to buy a gift for a man than just eenie-meenie-minie-moing one's way through gift aisles, nothing known to the modern art of shopping will.

John can now be seen to be the kind of man who'll like above-the-desk impressiveness. Perhaps a shirt, tie and handkerchief ensembled as to color and pattern. A heavy crepe muffler will warm his heart as well as his neck when he braves the chill night air.

The hours he spends pursuing his hobby indicate that he can happily and comfortably use an attractive robe or lounge jacket: in flannel, rayon, wool or velvet.

If he has a flair for thoroughly masculine hospitality a set of bar aprons variously patterned will prove decorative as well as anti-spill, anti-spot protection for his clothes.

Sample Number Two

There's also the type of man in public life who takes special pride in wearing nothing but the best. One large, sheer, handsomely monogrammed handkerchief given him will produce the desired effect of lavishness, yet comes within a limited gift budget.

Consider the man whom all out doors calls—to ski and skate; to tennis and golf, fishing, boating and riding horseback. Encourage him in his sport with sweaters, slacks, colorfully hand - knitted hose, boots for rainy weather wear, and he'll still be grateful years after Christmas 1941.

Perhaps he's in the Army now—or in the Navy, Marines or Air Force. The first thing to be remembered when selecting his gift is, to be practical insofar as making sure that it's one which will be useful in his new way of life. There are more or less standardized shirts, neckties, socks, belts, and braces, underwear, sleeping garment and slipper styles which "pass inspection" and carry the comforts of home right to camp or ship.

The family man is perhaps the easiest to please. Certainly the gift of comfort is the gift he most cherishes.

Fleece lined slippers with snug backs will give him toe-stretching ease, yet do away with the slap-slap-slapping over the floor with which outworn slippers torment the sensitive ear. Pajamas—to sleep and lounge in; a terry robe to wrap himself in (no towel needed if he's that lazy)—all these cater to the "male animal" in true Christmas spirit.

Quality Counts

One gift for one man. Fifty gifts for fifty men. No matter how many are to be bought; no matter how little or how much cash there is at hand to buy them; they can be chosen with assurance of good looks, good taste, good quality and appropriateness, in local stores which cater to men's needs on her man—and selections can be gaily, quickly made from the stores' own plentiful lines of color, pattern, size and style assortments.

All the shopper needs is a "line"

For the Man On Your Mind, There are Clothes and Gadgets Galore That Make Grand Christmas Giving and Assure Him Smarter Living

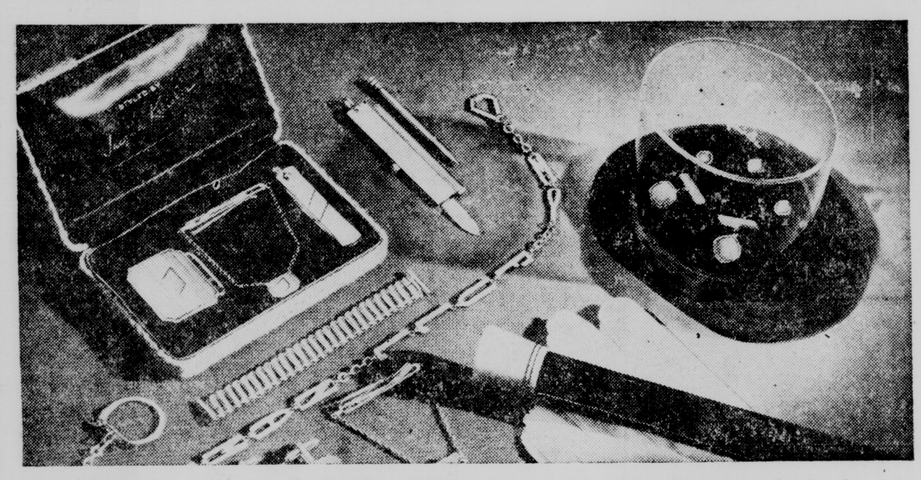

No Waist At All

Every girl likes belts, and this year's crop offers enough choice to ease the troubled gift giver. All are made with an eye to whittling down inches, and she will find the many different ornaments and clasps with which they are decorated intriguing.

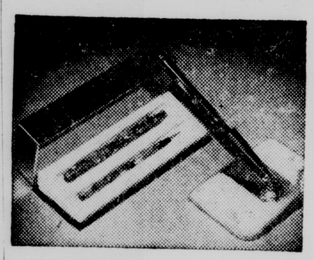

HE'LL BE ALL SMILES with a practical, wearable gift that will add to his "comforts of home."

JUST WHAT HE NEEDS—A ROBE—for solid comfort, a he-man, wrap-around, piped with fancy trim of Arlingcrest worsted flannel, napthalated wool, as pictured in the handsome gift box above; or a luxurious model of grosgrain and satin stripes, in Crown tested rayon, like that being worn by the happy guy at the right.

GIFTS FOR ONE who cherishes the fine things in life, are gifts of jewelry accessories for day and night. There is a wide and handsome assortment from which to make your choice.

THE RIGHT GIFT is a gift that writes! Pen and pencil set to please every age—pen and marble holder are for home or office.

A BRIEFCASE — one with plenty of room and with handles that slip in and out, is a favorite among busy men. Get one that holds a lot of papers GIFT TO THE GOURMET: Two jars of smoked turkey pate gaily boxed for Christmas.

GEM OF A GIFT for young men in the Army, Navy or Marines—this space saving kit with every aid for grooming.

FOR COMFORT LOVING MALES, a pair of slippers to suit his individuality. There is a pair for the fireside dozer, the hobby lover and the erstwhile traveler—all just the type they would choose themselves.

A CHRISTMAS KNIGHT will appreciate the High Hat. It's really a cigarette container, encasing a morocco grain cowhide gift belt with initialed buckle.

PRESTO CHANGO—a wallet with a pass unit for business use. When the unit is removed, a wafer thin billfold remains for evening wear.

FOUR DOZEN OYSTERS for the gourmet—Gardner's Island Salts, fresh from the beds, shipped in iced wooden tubs with a professional oyster opening knife enclosed.

PIPE DREAM gift for the smoker: a deep bowl with resting ledge and a durable knob against which to tap the pipe for emptying.

Looking Backward

For the siren in her soul, Santa says give intimate, black lingerie, So luxurious looking and utterly different in gift-giving! it's the latest fashion to dress completely in black—inside and out.

Music Hath Charm —Why Not Choose Album Of Records

To soothe the harried and fill the home with harmony, the most welcome gift is a selection of records—now that almost every home is equipped with some sort of record player.

Lovers of classical music will be thrilled with one or more albums of great symphonic music played by world famed orchestras and conductors.

Complete operas; interesting tone poems; amusing party records; operettas; currently popular rumba, conga, and swing, and records especially for children are only a few of the gift possibilities in this classification.

Precise Giving

Exciting Gifts-to-Wear for Children Will Make Them Feel Important this Christmas

Here Is Guide To What The Youngster Will Like—And Need

By BETTY GREEN
Fashion Editor, Parents Magazine

The gratifying part of giving children Gifts-to-Wear for Christmas is knowing that you are playing Santa Claus to both child AND parents. If you choose the gift wisely you will win the child's enthusiasm and the parent's at one and the same time.

Betty Green

Remember when you were very young, how profoundly bored you were with Gifts-to-wear? Maybe it was a box of initialed handkerchiefs; maybe it was a pair of sensible brown leather gloves; maybe it was leather bedroom slippers in a practical dark color.

If you were very, very young you started to doubt Santa's taste. If you were older you would write a labored "thank you" letter that sounded as uninspired as you considered the gift.

Visit the infants' and children's wear department of your favorite store and be convinced that it's an entirely different story nowadays. Suppose we take you—hypothetically, of course—by the hand and point out the exciting new Gifts-to-Wear that you will be seeing. For your convenience, let's classify them according to age groups, which is exactly what you should do when you make your selections.

For Little Girls

For little girls up to six years there are grand gift selections.

First, and foremost, a crisp cotton frock with a doll dressed in an exact miniature of the same dress. Here's the juvenile version of the popular mother-and-daughter fashion. How about a velveteen bonnet with a little muff bag to match, colorfully trimmed with little wooden beads.

LITTLE SISTERS will be thrilled with Santa's good taste, when he leaves them adorable velveteen bonnets and matching muff-handbags. Nosegay trimmed and ruffled, they're obviously for Sunday-best!

Don't overlook a pinafore for your favorite little girl—especially very Christmasy ones in white lawn with red and green rickrack and an embroidered sprig of holly. She'll get back into the Christmas spirit every time she wears it.

Give her a new sweater, but be sure it's in white or gay color with embroidered flowers on it. Red and green combinations will win the biggest applause on Christmas morning. And, to thrill are lace trimmed rayon crepe slip and pantie sets and quilted cotton robes. Even at four years old, girls warm to glamour.

Glamour For Gradesters

Do you know any little girls between seven and twelve years? Then, here's your shopping list for them.

Printed rayon crepe pajamas in dainty pastels; flower printed cotton housecoats with glamorously wide circular skirts (a very attractive one in a gardenia print comes with a separate gardenia hair clip); embroidered sweaters that can be worn over a black velveteen skating skirt; felt beanie and bag sets aglow with appliqued red hearts and flowers; bonnet and mittens of white curly lamb or rabbit fur and cotton blouses trimmed to match wool crepe skirts as a two-piece set. Ask any little girl under twelve to read this list and watch her face light up like a Christmas tree.

Teen Gifts, In Fashion

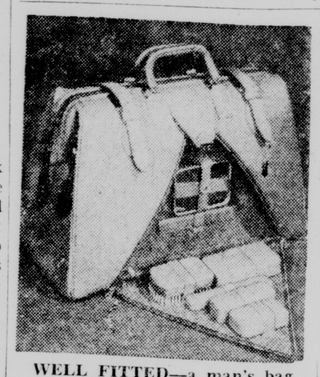

When you pick a gift for a teen-age high schooler, be sure you know your teen fashion trends. Gifts-to-Wear must be very much in fashion to please the teens. Knitted stocking caps with fluffy fur balls at the end; a black velveteen skirt in dirndl style; a rayon challis print peasant blouse to go with it; a coquettish rayon print long sleeved night gown with lace ruffles; a billowing quilted cotton robe in a lucious rose garden print; a V-neck Argyle pattern sweater (the latest fad in high school) and Argyle anklets or knee-high socks to match; a lace trimmed satiny slip with svelty fitted midriff; a plaid wool scarf with pockets of felt at each end and a plaid beanie to match, fringed with the felt; a reversible coat or the popular "Station Wagon" coat. These are only a few of the teen gifts you will find and all of them will win a sincere "It's just what I wanted" from any high schooler.

Boys Like Military Styles

Don't let's forget the boys. They like to get Gifts-to-Wear, too. The little boys, up to six, love anything that smacks of the military—cotton knit suits with embroidered shoulders for trimming; flannel robes with brass button and aviation insignia; snow suits that are in the military style. Bigger boys love novelty sweaters and sports jackets, especially those colorful styles that combine woven and knitted fabric in panel front arrangements. They get a big kick out of "wild" pajamas and colorfully plaided flannel shirts; a new tie will win them any time, especially if its blended with a new shirt and topped with a new tie clasp (sets of three come all packaged in celophane); sharpie socks in stripes that knock your eye out will convince them that you're the best of Santa Clauses.

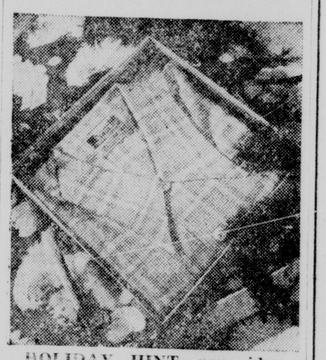

SMART CHRISTMAS TIE-UP: he, she, and a gift tie in monochromatic striped, wrinkle-resisting fabric. She approves color and pattern, and he likes them hard to wrinkle. You'll find no difficulty in choosing ties this year. They are designed for men!

WELL FITTED—a man's bag suede lined, with military pockets and straps. The drop compartment slide fastens to become one with the bag.

GIFT VOLUME for the golfer: really a cleverly designed box packed with golf balls to better his game.

HOLIDAY HINT—new idea in sport shirts: tailoring eliminates the shoulder seam, in soft Crown tested spun rayon.

Brilliant, Sparkling and Colorful Glassware Now Rises To Greater Popularity Among Beautiful, Practical Gifts

Rich Variety Of Fine Decorative Art And Useful Pieces

Brilliant, sparkling and inherently colorful, glassware holds high promise of proving most popular as a gift choice this Christmas: and to brighten the home with its beautifully practical, decorative character long after the last bit of tinsel has been taken from the Christmas tree.

Such a high degree of artistry—as well is functionalism—has been achieved in the development of many kinds of glassware to be seen and selected in local stores, that it provides a most gracious answer to "what to give" for use in every room in the house from nursery to bathroom, from kitchen to dining room, from boudoir to living room.

Particularly heartening to the gift giver with pin money to spend is the fact that production of glassware has in no way had to be limited because of defense demands.

Radiant Beauty

And those who venture shopping with a well-lined purse will be afforded a rich variety of exquisite glassware, distinguished in quality; highly detailed with hand craftsmanship of the blown or carved type, worthy of the admiration of the most critical!

At any price, the clear, radiant beauty of glassware lends itself to the simple home, or to hospitality in the grand manner, when the silversmith's and chinaware artisan's products too are brought forth to feast the eye—as well as to serve food for the palate.

There is glassware to give in the name of sheer luxury and decorative elegance; such as figurines; whimsical or as artistically impressble as the finest of sculpture.

There is glassware to enhance one's furnishings; including book ends, table centerpieces candelabra, bon bon dishes, picture frames, lamps and vases.

Gifts For Men

There is glassware of the most useful type—to cook in, to serve in; salt cellers, fruit bowls and platters; and complete services of drinking glassware, crystal clear of in delicate coloring.

Not restricted to the household, glassware has also inspired gifts for the business man's office; such as clocks, table lighters and ash trays thoroughly masculine, chinky, as though carved out of ice.

Catching a thousand lights with its prismatic reflectiveness, glassware features easy to clean surfaces, and lends itself to design suited to the most traditional as well as most modern background.

Good taste to give and thrilling to receive, gifts of glassware more than any other, can be bought inexpensively, yet make a brilliant impression, and radiate the fond wishes of the giver for many years to come.

MORNING GLORY twining, is the motif of decoration for this gift worthy platter, vase and bowl of Fostoria glass.

VITAMIN SALAD SET for epicures: combines large glass bowl, chromium tray and ivory handled spoon and fork.

MODERN AMERICAN Libbey crystal in a cornucopia vase—a magnificient Christmas gift for the modern home.

DECORATIVE GLASS book ends, heavy enough to hold Gone With the Wind, and more, reflects sparkling crystal highlights. There are candle sticks and ash trays equally beautiful.

FOR EARLY AMERICAN glassware lovers, will like this milk jug, goblet, tumbler comport and bowl in a lace dew drop pattern by Phoenix.

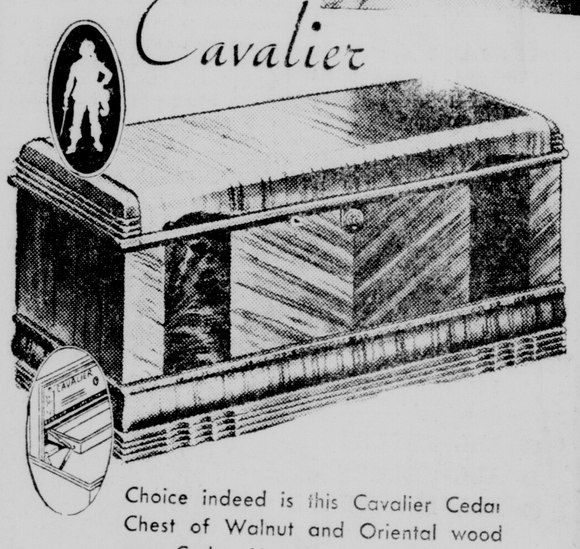

BRILLIANT REVIVAL of the past—in Fostoria cut glass that catches a thousand prismatic lights and reflects them colorfully.

Santa Presents Most Fascinating Christmas Doll Collection

Gifts That Every Girl Wants Most

Lifelike Models Are Real To Heart Of Your Child

By FRANCES ULLMANN
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

You may have difficulty in getting delivery on that new car, or on the trays for your new refrigerator this Christmas. But, although manufacturers of toys are actively cooperating in the defense program, there is no shortage in dolls for the girls, thanks to long-range planning. That is as it should be, for everyone knows a girl must have a "child" of her own to care for, to do for, to sew for. American dolls are more enchanting than ever this year, and Christmas is made to order for giving them.

Frances Ullmann

Some of them are welcome familiar figures. There is the so-called functional doll, which is a fancy way of refering to the Dy-Dee or Betsy-Wetsy type that takes liquids from bottle or spoon, blows bubbles, has flexible rubber ears cleaned, must be changed. These exceptional babies (they have no behavior problems) still have the skin you love to touch—soft, warm, washable skin that can be pinched and wrinkled.

This year they come in five sizes, and with a variety of layette combinations for use until such a time as the young mother feels an urge to do some sewing. There is also a variation called Squeezee, each of whose legs when squeezed gives forth a different cry; this baby has still a third voice when tipped backward.

Growing Up Dolls

Among growing-up dolls are Little Lady dolls with smooth, up-to-th-minute pigtail hair-dos soft, complexions, rolling eyes, and just to make everything really lifelike separate fingers so that they can wear gloves. There's Jeannie Walker, a coy miss who walks simply by having her upper arm grasped and then being moved forward. She sits down, too, in a natural manner. And there's a charming boy who looks very much like younger brother, clad in pastel corduroy overalls with Basque shirt, and wearing a snappy skullcap.

There have been dolls before dressed in replicas of their young owner's wardrobes. Now they come holding minatures of themselves. And pert misses they are, too. Especially Me and Mimi, surprised looking yarnhaired young ladies made of cloth. Not realistic, but with a definite appeal for the girl who likes the whimsical. The same idea of doll carrying her own doll is carried out by Chinese Ming Toy, Mary and her lamb, Goldilocks and one of the bears.

Although it has not yet made dolls difficult to get, naturally the war is reflected in some of the new dolls. Of course the Army and Navy come in for their share of attention. There is one representative of each complete with uniform. And with whistles in the legs that give out.. . . —, V for Victory.

Bond Baby Doll

And there is a large-eyed Bond Baby doll who waves the Stars and Stripes and carries her own Defense Stamp album with a 25c stamp pasted in it.

A young representative of the spirit of America comes attractively boxed with two changes of costume so that she can be dressed for Colonial or Civil War days, as well as the present day. This doll might well inspire her young owner to look up costumes of intervening periods and, if she is at all interested in sewing, to copy some of them so that the doll can depict the entire history of what women looked like in this country from the first homemakers off the Mayflower through the years.

In connection with this, it is suitable to remind doll-givers of the fascination that dolls of different lands have for most girls. Many of them who start collecting nationality dolls keep up their interest long past the day when dolls are playthings. Lovely ones are to be had with costumes authentic in every detail.

Movie-star dolls are no longer so much in evidence. Shirley Temple has reached the sub-deb stage, and other juvenile actresses have grown up and married.

Movie Doll Animal

The chief effect of the movies on dolls this year comes from Walt Disney Studios in the form of animals for the youngest in the family—but with a definite appeal for the teener, too, who like amusing stuffed animals for her room.

With the release of Mr. Disney's "Bambi" and "Dumbo" comes long-legged fawns, and cuddly lambs; and there are dogs, and horses, and donkeys, and calves.

A lot of thought has gone into making dolls individual, sturdy, and appealing. No matter what type of doll you're looking for this Christmas, you're sure to have a good time.

Automotive Hint

If a little time is taken for inspecting the tires after a long automobile trip, they can be made to last much longer. Sharp materials are often found imbedded in the rubber treads.

Largest Lobster

A lobster taken off the coast of New Jersey is said to be the largest ever caught. It weighed 34 pounds and was estimated to be 50 years old.

There are beehives on the roof of a building off Drury Lane, London. The bees haunt the parks and square gardens.

Here Are Just a Few of the Great and Glorious and Lifelike Family of Dolls to Thrill Every Little Mother This Year

JUST LIKE A REAL LIVE BABY—That's how the "magic squeeze" doll feels, and its no wonder the little girl holding the doll in the above picture is so fond of her. The "real live feel" is the result of the development of a plastic "magic skin."

LOLLY, THE LATEX BABY DOLL that has the warmth and feel of a real, live infant. Both legs and arms are of fully jointed rubber that moves about in a lifelike manner.

A BIKE OF HER OWN, 'neath the Christmas tree, with pedals suited to her own leg reach, will thrill the heart of the family tomboy.

"REAL PEOPLE DOLLS" MAKE IT POSSIBLE for you to give that motherly little girl a whole family for her to manage with loving care. They go perfectly with the Doll's House that she no doubt would also love to have.

"ME AND MIMI," appealing all cloth dolls who offer a double measure of joy to some lucky little girl.

THAT BOND BABY DOLL pictured above is a patriotic little girl who carries her own defense stamp album with a real 25-cent Defense Stamp in it. She's dressed in All-American fashion.

LITTLE LADY, a pigtailed Miss dressed in the latest fashion. A doll so lifelike, she'll steal your heart away.

DY-DEE is the answer to every little girl's wish! She drinks from bottle, blows bubbles and even needs her dydees changed.

Early Voting Method

The method of voting used by the Greeks for some 2500 years consisted of having an urn to represent each candidate. The voter tossed in a white pebble if he wished to vote for a candidate, and a black one if he wished to vote against him.

Button, Button, Who'll Get Button

Ranking high on Christmas gift lists, and to be selected in the notions departments of local stores, are handsome buttons which can be matched to earrings and clips.

A far cry from mundane things to put through buttonholes, the new buttone are jewel-like, whether made of wood, metal, plastic, or composition and take the form of animal, bird flower, insignia, sheer whimsy and pure beauty!

U. S. Birth Statistics

More than 44,000,000 births were recorded in the Unted States between 1915 and 1938, according to the Census Bureas. Of these, there were 72 cases of quadruplets.

V FOR VICTORY DOLLS, a soldier boy and his pal a sailor, who can be induced to whistle the victory melody . . .

Gift Yardage Will Help Her Make Own

More and more women who are thrifty — and individualists in fashion—are taking to running a fine seam and making their own clothes.

No gift will please such women more, than a length of fine fabric from which to make a dress, evening gown, housecoat, lingerie, blouse, coat or suit.

A packet of needles, matching thread and a suggested trimming added to the fabric are further thoughtful Christmas gestures.

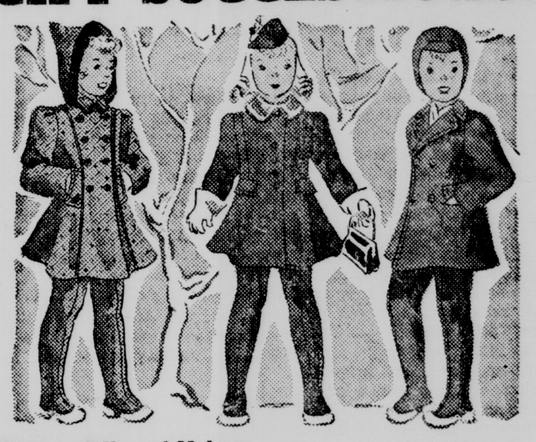

"Chinese Days"

One of San Francisco's municipal courts sets aside three days a week as Chinese days. On those days, all defendants in the court are Chinese.

Accidental Discovery

One of the largest mastedons ever found in America was discovered when a Cromwell, Ind., youth stubbed his toe on one of its 8¼-pound molar teeth in 1931.

Furs Most Precious Of Gifts

Become Lord Bountiful For Someone This Christmas

There is ample opportunity for the gift giver to be eminently practical, yet wear the cloak of Lord or Lady Bountiful this year because so many things to wear have had their gift value greatly enhanced by the requirement of our defense program.

Chief among these practical, precious gifts is—the gift of fur. Wearable by every age of feminity, it combines the very desirable elements of warmth, fashionability, beauty and durability.

Even the least expensive fur gift comes to the recipient as something fabulously lovely; and there are many possibilities for giving, starting at prices under $10.

The fur hat, for example, may be selected in a fur to match a coat already owned, or to play a solo as a very elegant accessory to be worn with an untrimmed coat, suit or dinner dress. Leopard, Persian Lamb, mink, squirrel and silver fox are just a few of the most attractive pelts seen in millinery.

Handbag Muff

Quite as serviceable as the hat, is the handbag-muff of fur which is not only wearable by day, but adds a dashing note as an accessory to formal evening assembles.

Fur trimmed gloves; pompoms to add to a dress or wear as lapel gadgets; fur by the yard; all are readily affordable; all are pamperingly thrilling to receive.

For the gift giver with a little more to spend, nothing can be more highly recommended than the fur stole of a single skin of fox; or the multiple skin stole designed of fox; kolinsky, baum or stone marten, dyed squirrel or one of any number of other smart furs.

For really munificent giving there is, of course, the fur coat—jacket—or cape. Appropriate for daytime and evening wear, it can be wisely and appropriately chosen for college girl; chic young matron; woman of fashion or career girl.

Wide Selection

In fitted or casual silhouette sports or dressy in detailing, whether it is of inexpensive mouton lamb; magnificent mink or ermine; popular Persian, caracul, muskrat, silver fox or lynx, or any other fine fur, it represents the most flattering and thrilling gift girl or woman can receive at Christmas time.

It is the one item of wearing apparel she will enjoy wearing with pride all of the time, and not tire of.

The generous giver of a fur gift will find convenient arrangements provided by stores and departments selling furs—for layaway or extended time payment terms.

Desks Rate 'Tops'

Desks have always had a priority on Christmas lists. For the 1941 holidays, you'll find kneehole desks dominant, some of them having a shelf for a typewriter. Secretary desks hold onto another section of public approval, and there are numerous student desks on display in Sedalia which will hit the fancy of the members of the family who are of school age.

Eyewear Wardrobe

A gift that will give all-year usefulness and enjoyment is a gift of two pairs of anti-glare sport glasses either slightly tinted or in deeper color. A pair for summer use can be accompanied by a windshield equipped pair for winter use.

Black Magic

For that swish look, a chiffon-edged gift handkerchief will be flaunted with her evening gown. It has a quality look and is something she is sure not to get doubles of.

Time Plays An Important Part In Christmas Shopping This Year—Watches "Tops" As Gifts

Here Is Something To Be Treasured For Years To Come

So much a part of the wardrobe has a reliable watch become to busy folk in all walks of life, that although the person who owns none must certainly be smartly supplied at Christmas time—it is also true that the person who already possesses one watch will be doubly grateful for a second, assuring the right style of timepiece for every occasion.

They are handsomely fashioned of precious metals, as well as graciously designed in every inexpensive types, permitting a wide choice in every price range.

Your Portrait Is Gift That They'll Want

Photograph Will Prove Most Personalized Of Greetings

Christmas greetings will be echoed throughout the year when they come in the very personal form of a gift photograph.

Grandparents in a distant town who would love to feel that their grandchildren are always with them; the young-marrieds whose busy hours can be cheered by wife's or husband's portrait on desk or living room table; sweethearts who through exchanged pictures can feel that they are never apart; for everyone dear, particularly if they are not near, no gift means more in sentiment and actuality than a lifelike photograph.

And perhaps the very first on one's gift list to receive a portrait is the man away from home, serving in an Army camp or aboard ship.

For Companionship

To him the companionship of loved ones is most precious, and homesickness or loneliness can be easily dispelled by the sight of a dear face smiling out of picture frame, cabinet mounting, or folding leather case.

Very easily procurable, the Christmas photograph can be made the answer to every gift-giving problem on one's shopping list.

It takes mere minutes to pose for a picture, either at a studio or in one's own home. and ordered by the half-dozen or more, the same picture can go to all whom you want to intimately remember at Christmas time.

When planning to send photographs by mail, to training camps, naval and air bases, to friends and relatives out of town, early appointments should be made with the photographer to insure their being received by Christmas day.

Studio Wraps, Mails

Arrangments can also be made for the studio to wray and mail: when the pictures are ready to be sent out, the giver can stop in at the photographer's and suitably inscribe a message on each print, or enclose separate greeting cards.

Because this Christmas more than any past is a time for frankly sentimental thoughtfulness, one's portrait can perhaps best be relied upon to picture all the tender things one has to express by truly personalized giving.

All of our suggestions are kind to your Christmas budget. You will see all of them displayed in the stores of Sedalia beginning tomorrow and continuing through the season.

Christmas Spirit Begins at Home; Furniture Is Perfect Gift

Brighten This Year's Yuletide Scene In Your Home—With Gifts Of Lasting Quality, Chosen from Realm of Furniture, Says Santa

Chairs For Dad, Lamps For Mother

Family Can Combine To Refurnish An Entire Room This Year

If you seek a lasting gift . . give something for the home.

That's the counsel of home economists who consider the American home the first line of defense.

Happily, it is more than an empty phrase, and always has been for the American family which has accumulated home comforts and conveniences far beyond the dreams of folk in most other lands.

The late Douglas Malloch put the thought in verse:

"Though something for a minute,
Some heart a moment cheers,
The gift with Christmas in it,
Is something for the years.
The little gifts are pleasant—
The gifts as light as foam,
But for the great big present,
Give something for the Home!"

A wide variety of home gifts are now on display in the stores. Whether it be the refurnishing of some room or corner, whether it be a gift for Dad, Mother, Sister or Brother, you'll find a plentiful selection at the stores.

Here's one of the secrets that most merchants know: Women like the novelties and new ideas, but men prefer the Old Standbys.

Dad still wants a comfortable chair; smokers are on many Christmas lists and receive a warm welcome. Many men have an unfulfilled and unasked-for dream of a desk of their very own. Reading lamps are another item craved by men, who want bright, masculine lighting equipment.

For Mother, tops is a chair for her very own self, and, as with men, a desk is wanted badly by many women. Feminine lamps, with decorative shades, are wanted by many; sewing cabinets, many of them so built as to serve also as chair-side, bedside or hall table; mirrors of many types are being shown, and most homes have too few of them.

Hostess trays and small appliances are likewise offered, and make excellent gifts. Dinnerware and tea sets are items which many a woman craves.

While smaller items have been listed in the preceding paragraphs, many a family longs for a suite to replace the "hand-me-downs" which served as initial furnishings after the wedding.

Whether it be an upholstered living room suite, a dining room to replace "that round golden oak thing" or a new bedroom, you'll find that many families lump their assets at Christmas time, and give a gift "from the family to the home," which all may enjoy.

And it is still possible to obtain furnishings on one budget, or installment plan or another.

THE "WRITE" GIFT FOR ANYONE, a desk, useful and decorative. This secretary desk is copied from an original used by Henry W. Longfellow. The chair and mirror are in keeping, and either would make an excellent Christmas gift.

GIVE STORAGE SPACE IN STYLE by choosing to give one of the new cedar chests of drawers, called the Stow-away. They've just come on the market recently. The one pictured is in mahogany and cedar.

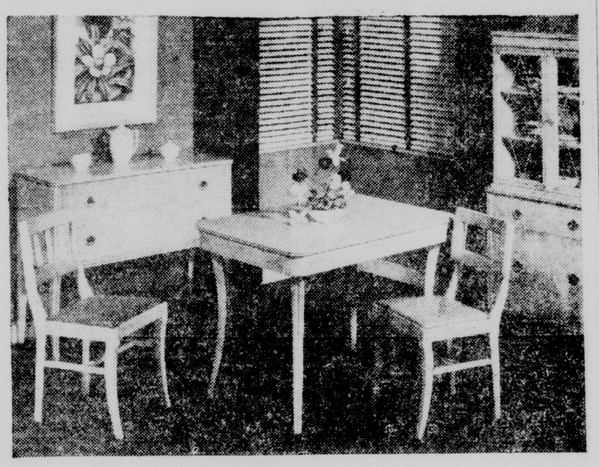

ADD A FOURTH GIFT possibly—the Axminster rug—to this decorated commode-table, the lamp and the typically French chair upholstered in velvet, for Christmas sparkle.

ONE OR ALL of the above group—lamp, barrel chair and matching leg rest, or end table, of Old Colony design would make a handsome Christmas choice.

YOU CAN'T POSSIBLY GO WRONG when you choose any one or all of the pieces pictured in the living room above as a gift for her this Christmas. The different tables, the phone stand, the love seat, the lamps and the rug, make clear what diversity of gifts are available in the realm of furniture.

"PREFERRED BLOND" in modern furnishing trends is blond mahogany. Shown here, graciously designed for small dining rooms, it is a happy gift choice whose light color and good proportions will grace many happy mealtimes.

Let Them Help You Pick Out The Gift Chair

Selecting a chair is one of those gift problems which stump many a husband or wife. Easy chairs are such a personal problem, that what one person finds comfortable may be entirely unsuited for another.

Strange as it seems, wing chairs which are frequently purchased for men are not so well suited to male construction and posture as more squatt types.

At the same time most women find barrel back chairs ideally adapted to their physiques.

It is just as well to break down and confide to the object of the gift-giving that you are giving him or her a chair, and ask for help in the selection.

Carpet That Fits Room Is On Yule List

Broadloom Eliminates The 'Island In A Sea Of Varnish'

With Christmas just around the corner, many folks are now thinking of getting the floor coverings they have been seeing so much of—and hearing so much about . . . carpeting to fit the room.

The broadloom carpeting which comes in 9, 12 and 15 foot widths is made to measure to room sizes, and no longer need the rug look like an island in a sea of varnished flooring.

While the hankering of many goes to broadloom carpeting, there is still a plentiful supply of ready made rugs in 9 x 12 foot and eight foot three inch by ten foot six inch sizes. Soft pastel colors vie with rich, darker shades for public attention in the local stores.

Since floor coverings are a principal feature of room decoration, they may well be the key to the color scheme. While there is a wide field of floral patterns, the 18th Century furniture being much used goes best with Oriental patterned rugs, or the two-tone broadloom carpeting.

Broadloom carpeting, either plain or patterned, probably is the best selection for use with modern furniture. Plain is suggested in case there is a decided pattern in wallpaper or draperies, while a pattern may prove more desirable with plain walls, draperies and upholstered covers.

Colors used in the rug or carpeting can pick up the colors used in other parts of the room.

One essential factor to be remembered is that the floor is the foundation for the room, and generally speaking should be the darkest portion, unless a very modern scheme is worked out by a person with knowledge of decorative technique.

Hurry—If You'd Acquire A Chrome Breakfast Suite!

You can find few gifts more suitable than a dinette or breakfast set . . . for many homes. The most popular numbers are the chrome legged numbers with stainless steel table tops and leatherette or fabricated chair seats.

At the same time, there is a wide selection of period styles—Early American maple, 18th Century English, Modern walnut, and oak—either in the traditional dark finish, or in the new limed oak.

Those who are interested in the metal breakfast sets would be well to speed their purchases, inas much as the supply may not last long.

Most stores have an adequate stock to last through the Christmas season, but are uncertain as to their ability to procure additional suites in 1942.

Fashion For Rooms

The girl away at college; the guest room furnisher; the girl living away from home in pursuit of a career; and every home making heart will be delighted to receive a matching set of bedspread and draperies. These room fashions can be matched up in heavy textured cottons, rayon damasks and other appropriate fabrics.

For Hearth And Home

For safety, decorative effect, and smart giving, fireplace sets win the vote of any fireplace owner. Screens, andirons and scuttles come in a great variety of ornamental effects for modern and traditional rooms.

Long Beads Back!

She probably doesn't have a string of the newly popular waist length beads! Pearl strands to wear singly, or wound around her neck, and if she's someone special, South Sea shell strands or multi-color beads.

Cedar Chest From A Boy To A Girl

Perhaps no Christmas gift carries the romantic connotations so much as the cedar chest. Hence, the increased sale of attractive styles of chests in the past year undoubtedly is related to the increased issuance of marriage licenses.

The chests are now made in a wide selection of woods (over cedar, since government specifications call for 70 per cent cedar content), and there are period styles in walnut, maple and mahogany veneers, in Modern, Early American and 18th Century patterns. An innovation this year is a cedar chest of drawers called the "Stow-Away."

During his major league career, "Muddy" Ruel, famous catcher, hit only four home runs, one for each 1127 times at bat.

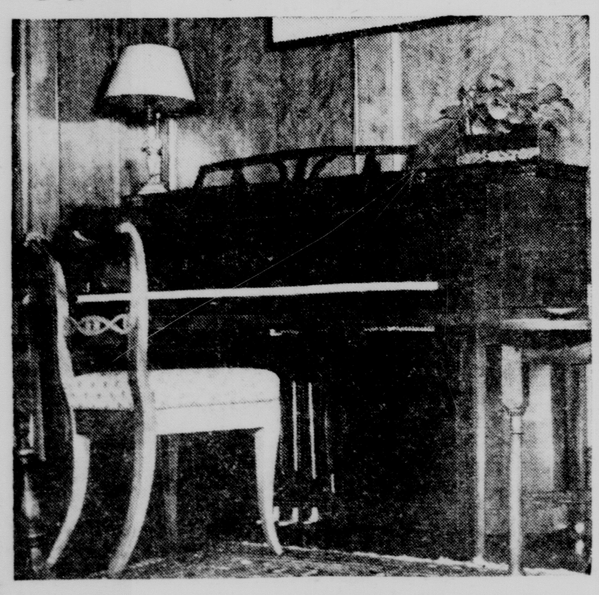

Table Sets Shown For Card Addicts

Families whose principal amusement is playing cards will find a broad selection from which to choose in selecting card table or bridge sets this year. Whether the game be poker, pinochle or bridge, the stores are equipped to supply every need, from collapsible hide-away tables to permanent table-and-chair sets, which are a permanent part of the furnishings, ideally suited to corners of rooms, bay windows or niches.

Why Not A Whatnot?

It's the little things that give a home personality. And one of the smartest little things for Christmas giving is a "whatnot" shelf of straight-hanging or corner-fitting design. Avaliable made of wire, mirror, glass or wood they can hold a number of curios, tiny vases, minature furniture, bric-a-brac and the like.

For The Music Lover

THE NEW MODEL PIANOS combine the virtues of the grand, the upright and the spinet, in a compact instrument that can be placed right near the Christmas tree to thrill a music lover this year.

Kitchen Calls To Practical Minded Santa

Appliances Considered Important To Gift Plan This Year

The practical gift giver of this unusual year will not forget that all important workshop in which mother spends so much of her time, when she begins to plan to make the Christmas this year a merry one and one that she will remember as one of the highspots in her life.

Contrary to an all to erroneous public impression, it is possible to buy those labor saving devices, electrically operated, that are best exemplified by the electric range and the electric refrigerator, on liberal time payment terms. Yet if too much time is permitted to lapse they may be more difficult to acquire.

Ranges and refrigerators exemplify another important aspect of Christmas giving this year.

The new models are so much more efficient that when they are acquired to supplant the current-greedy models of years gone by, they make a contribution to household economy.

There could be no more practical gift for mother than one of the major household appliances and this year especially the washing machine— which once may have been considered something humble—comes right into the gift category.

An electric washing machine means a terrific burden lifted from mother's shoulders. So why not make it a Merry Christmas for her.

Now is the time to give appliances as gifts.

Bathroom Gift

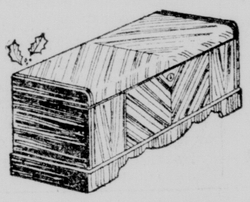

Cheer is spread at windows and tub with a gift of matching shower curtains and window sets. Patterns such as sailing ships, flying gulls, smile-provoking penguins and more formal motifs enrich every kind of fabric from transparet oiled silk to sailcloth.

Aid To Hospitality

The hostess enjoys receiving anything which will help her set a smarter dinner table. Important on this year's gift list for her, is the table centerpiece comprised of several units of china, glass or plastic, which can be filled with flowers and worked into a variety of designs.

'Let Us Be Gay' Is Motto to Guide You In Selecting Her Gift

Fashion Is Major Key To Choice

With A Dash Of Sauce From The Practical Side Of Life

By Vivian C. Freeman

The American woman's motto during these times wisely is, "Let us be gay."

She knows being gay is the best way to get things done with a smile. Gaiety is the smart woman's most precious attribute, which she combines with a canny sense of the practical.

Therefore, when Christmas shopping for her—whatever her age, type or interests—her gaiety is a quality to be catered to, and hers is a phrase to be remembered and interpreted in terms of fashionable giving. It says so much; it means so much: "Let us be gay." And it is the gift of fashion which more than any other combines gaiety with practicability for Christmas and long after.

These are days of many interests when each woman on one's gift list may call for an entirely different kind of gift. One, perhaps, is engaged in busy-ness behind desk or counter. To her, leisure at home is precious. A quilted robe patterned with flowers will prove both gay and practical.

The Victory—V

If her earnings must be strictly budgeted, a bit of useful whimsy such as earrings; fantastic lapel gadgets, or gloves appliqued with the Victory-V will answer all her requirements.

There's the woman who wins greatest admiration for the smoothness with which she runs her home. She's happiest playing hostess. She'll love jeweltone suede slippers, studded with precious looking stones. Comfortable as play shoes, they're elegant enough to dance in.

Is she bringing up her children as capably as she manages the home? She's probably always "making something" for them, so she'll welcome yarns and art needlework, and capacious bags in which to carry her handicraft.

Has she been first to answer her country's call for women to be active in defense? She'll wink at the practical gaiety of a set of sweater and slacks in practical, flattering gray or blue.

Whatever a woman does by day, evenings find her poised and decorative—a sight to cheer men's hearts, whether they be her contemporaries in civilian life, or in active service in our nation's army navy, marines or flying force. For her the gift of glamour is most thrilling.

An evening bag with gleaming plastic frame; a preciously lovely kerchief to double as a scarf; an evening slip faultlessly fitting, sequin butterflies to clasp in her hair; hard-to-get hosiery fine enough to draw through a ring.

For the Practical

If she's more practical than gay, the doubly purposeful gift will pack double delight. A fur muff-handbag for day and night. A processed nylon raincoat to wear alone, or so designed as to fit over a winter coat. And the kind of blouse that's equally right with street length or dance length skirt.

Does she live a life of sports? Professionally styled snow suits serve for skiing, skating and looking on. And Christmas is the time to outfit her for summer sports—a suede jerkin for golf or horseback riding; a robe, and shorts for tennis, if not all-year wear under a suit.

Whether she's sentimental or scent-imental, the gift of perfume, toiletries or cosmetics, cleverly packaged, is what she wants.

Handbags are synonymous with Christmas—and even a shopping shirking male will find it easy to select from this year's attractive leathers, fabrics, colors and shapes.

Perhaps she's still in college. There are practical and gay gifts a-plenty in her class—all wearable. Fur adorned mitts and caps go out by day as well as at night. She'll flaunt an embroidered yoke evening wrap. And a good tweed jacket to wear with slacks and skirts is her first heart's desire. She'd love, too, a string of beads, yards long; and long knitted socks bright-bright, with mittens to to match.

Let Us Be Gay

There are gifts galore in store for every shopper to give every maid and matron on the gift list. All practical gifts, quality made the American way, they're gay as gay can be.

And local stores present them in gala assortments against Christmas-gay backgrounds which make selecting easier and more enjoyable, whether one dollar, or five or ten or more, is the price the giver is ready to pay.

More than any Christmas, this is a time for the gift shopper to set out with a bright eye, light-stepping foot, and singing heart, using as a shopping theme song the American woman's own buy-words:

"Let us be gay!"

The tree pie is a bird.

TRIBUTE TO BEAUTY, is the lustre of pearls—especially when knotted in the latest fashion. An ideal gift is this three strand necklace with matching rhinestone clasped, bracelet and sparkling earrings.

FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE, this manicure set with all aid to keep her hands well groomed. She'll tote the classic case everywhere and call it a handbag.

BEST GIFT AT HAND for maid or matron: the glove wardrobe. Kid for dress, knitted for sports, and mittens for spectator wear.

BEAUTY IS THE WATCHWORD for Christmas giving. This smart combination of linked bracelet and femine watch, makes a complete and thrilling ensemble.

SO LIGHT IT'S FEATHERWEIGHT, for travel by air, land or sea. Combining blue cowhide with rawhide trim, for the fashionable woman.

THOSE LITTLE EVENINGS at home will be big events if she has a lounging pajama ensemble like this in velvet with Crown Tested rayon crepe tunic in the new swallow mode.

Santa's Wonderland Holds Many Surprises for Girls and Boys

Toys That Teach Are Preferred

Choose Playthings That Suit Child's Personality And Age

By MARY E. BUCHANAN
Managing Editor, Parents' Magazine.

The story is told of a woman who each Christmas for twenty years sent a cowboy suit to her nephew who lived in a distant city. Fortunately most uncles and aunts, no matter how seldom they see their nephews and nieces, have a better idea of suiting the gift to the child. And certainly parents have usually come a lot closer to the mark.

Mrs. Buchanan

But never before have they so thoughtfully considered toys as instruments in the physical, emotional and social development of the child. Today what the toy does for the child is taken into account, as well as the pleasure it will give him.

Through the years American toy-makers, urged on by parents and educators, have developed toys which meet the demands of good tools. Toys are now sturdy, safe and designed to fit the needs of the growing child. Sales persons are trained to give intelligent advice as to special needs that particular toys satisfy.

Parents who understand their children, who can evaluate their various stages of development, should have no difficulty these days in finding toys just right for the boys and girls for whom they are purchased.

Guide To Toys

Not every child, of course, is ready for different types of toys at the same age, but there are certain guides to the development of children that indicate the types of play materials from which they will derive the greatest educational value as well as pure enjoyment. In such a brief article, it is, of course, impossible to give a comprehensive list of toys. It is possible, however, to suggest types of play materials and the needs they satisfy.

Under six months the baby is fully occupied with discovering himself—his hands, his feet, his mouth. He is not much interested in playthings. Bright balls or strings of beads are hung within his eye range. When he reaches out for some gay, elusive object and tries to grasp it, growth is on the way. Now he is ready for objects he can grasp, such as soft, cuddly dolls and animals.

During the next stage, when he must investigate things, he needs toys of various sizes and shapes, toys that help develop the large muscles, that train his power of seeing and hearing. In other words, he is ready for rubber toys, large blocks that he can handle easily, bell toys, floating toys, objects that roll away to be crawled after.

From about eighteen months to four years, the baby is still gaining control over his muscles; he is still experimenting, but to a greater degree. At the same time he will play with any one toy for only a few minutes at a time. It is important, therefore, that he have a well-chosen variety of play materials. He likes to run, to push and to pull, to dig and to pound. He enjoys rhythmns and makes up his own. He must manipulate all kinds of strange new objects.

Still More Blocks

For all these reasons, he needs still more blocks—the nested variety or large wooden ones, push-and-pull toys, colored wooden trains to be taken apart and put together again, airplanes, boats, stringing toys, peg boards, soft dolls wheeled equipment to ride, musical play materials.

Blocks are still important in the life of the five-year-old and the six-year-old. At this age some of the blocks should have letters on them. More musical toys are in order, more trains and boats, dolls and miniature furniture and housekeeping equipment modeling clay, paints and crayons with the correct paper for their use.

From the age of six, various skills are rapidly being developed. Now construction toys are on the list, suited to the ability of the child to use them—kits to build airplanes and trains, steel structures, boats. The girls will want more dolls with all their equipment, sewing paraphernalia, more household utensils.

Both boys and girls will want bicycles, skates, gym apparatus and sports equipment. And it isn't long before table games, workbenches, chemistry sets, magic sets, printing presses are called for.

In purchasing any play materials for children, the construction should be examined. Toys have been made safe. Sharp corners have been rounded for the youngest in the family, pieces easy to swallow don't come off, non-poisonous plaints are used.

Construction Important

But construction still is important, not only that the toys may stand up under hard use, but also to put into children's hands sturdy objects that give them the feel of good construction. Most toy manufacturers these days are producing goods that meet all these requirements.

It is important to remember that no matter how purposefully toys are selected for their educational value, their fun-loving possibilities are just as important. The wisely chosen play material gives a child hours of pleasure at the same time that it stimulates him to rewarding activity.

For a Sew-and-Sew

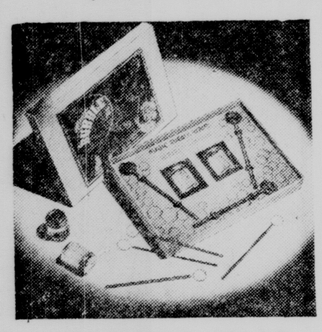

With the increase of home sewing going on, this Christmas finds gadgets useful to the dressmaker very welcome as gifts that will be helpful year 'round. Fascinating are pinking shears which creating are pinking shears which create a non-raveling sawtooth edge, as they cut.

Holding a 100-pound weight above your head is not work. Work is defined physically as "force, producing motion through space."

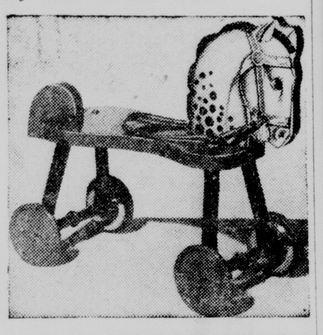

Toys That Make It Possible for Youngsters to Have Fun While They Learn How to Be Grownups, Featured in Santa's Gift Bag

MAKE WAY FOR HIS HIGHNESS who rides into the Christmas scene in a handsome new "station wagon" so like a real one, it might well hold all the intriguing new toys he hopes to get this year, including the cuddly bear in the rear.

MAGIC BUBBLE WAND which with a wave of the hand lets loose a galaxy of delightful surpising bubbles Easy enough for any youngster to use.

YOUNG EQUESTRIANS will gaily jog along atop this hobby horse to the jingle of tiny bells attached to the reins. Helps young ones learn to walk

"MOTORIZED" PLAY ROOMS will be popular with this year's miniatures of trucks and cars so faithful to the originals, every child will be thrilled. Even army trucks and service trucks are included in the selection.

"BOARD OF EDUCATION" is this ample sized blackboard that comes complete with its own seat, chalk and eraser.

YOUNG ARTISTS will appreciate this completely equipped paint set, and even the teen ager will be inspired by it.

Make a Gift For Someone

Sweater For A Soldier, Scarf For Woman

Santa Claus is all in favor of the "personal touch" in Christmas gifts. Hand made gifts that can be made at home, always win special smiles of approval, but this year, more than ever, simple gifts, knitted, crocheted at little cost, will be doubly appreciated —because it isn't what you give, but the thought that counts.

What gift could be more appreciated by the boys in the service than a hand knit sweater, knit according to approved specifications. The Citizens' Committee for Defense recommends a V neck sleeveless pullover sweater. It is versatile, practical—and a favorite among most men. The fact that it is sleeveless, means much less time in the making, too.

The woman who keeps house, never has too many linens and tray cloths. Crichet an openwork luncheon set in cotton thread, or a tray cover, in a simple stitch that has a smart, modern appearance. Or make a bureau scarf, or chair set, in the same stitch.

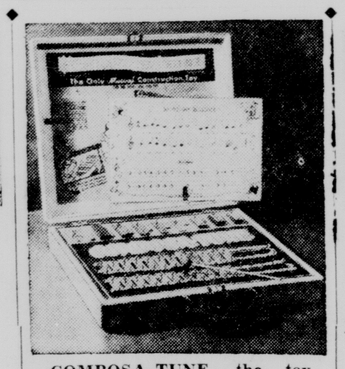

For the girl in school, a dickey, to wear with suits and sweaters, is a grand choice. Make it in white pique, or sharkskin, and monogram her initials and class year on the collar, in her class colors. This novel trick, is rapidly becoming a vogue with the young set.

A belt, of gayly colored felt, embroidered with a floral pattern, is a practical and easy-to-make gift for any woman. Even a youngster can make one, it is so simple. The design can be traced on the fabric, and the embroidery carried out in Lazy Daisy stitch, with a border of blanket stitching.

Christmas will be much more fun, and the gifts will be particularly appreciated because of the personal interest taken in them.

Let The Winds Blow

If he is the outdoor type, all the more reason for giving him a lighter that won't blow out in a high wind. For convenience, the pocket size lighter is a wise choice with insignia of his branch of service, or his favorite sport emblem on the cover.

COMPOSA-TUNE, the toy for a child who is musically inclined. Perfect training for that future song writer.

HOBBY LUMBER YARD, the constructive gift for budding architects, it offers a lesson in neatness at the same time.

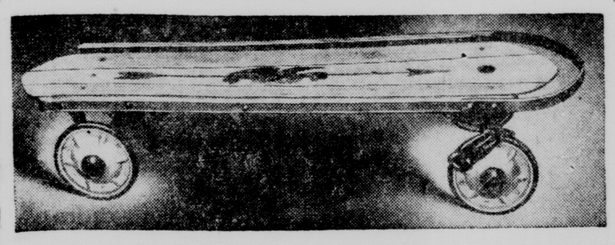

CHEERY GREETINGS for every occasion can be embroidered by girls who receive this sewing set for Christmas. Keeps little fingers happily busy.

RAPID FIRE PLANES for sham air fights amongst the younger aviator set. Comes boxed for Christmas.

DESTROYER, the educational toy that enables a boy to construct his own war zone equipped with every coastal defense. There is action in this timely toy.

SPEED DEMON'S DELIGHT—the Flexy racer, an all weather coaster with steering bar, and rubber tires which adhere to the rule of "Safety First."

ANNIE-ELEPHANT, who lumbers along like a miniature Jumbo and performs tricks for her master or mistress.

Budding Author Wants Typewriter

Anyone fortunate enough to know a budding—or already successful—author, will want to help the muses foster talent, by presenting a typewriter for Christmas which is especially equipped with all literary symbols such as paragraph, caret and similar indications.

All Is Vanity

To appease her vanity, the gift of a very dramatic dresser set is the most exciting possible gift choice. Particularly effective are those made out of Lucite; clear as crystal; smartly chunky; and suitable for traditional as well as modern bedrooms.

WEIGH IN for the Yuletide honors with a scales for the bathroom or bedroom of the athletic man, or dieting woman.

SODA ON TAP in this Sparklet bottle, with replaceable bulbs. Perfect gift for those who have a naturally hospitable disposition.

DEMOCRACY is the name of a new game pictured above, that is developing great popularity. What a perfectly timed Christmas gift.

IN THE CHIPS—the recipient of the leather encased card player's gift above. And for researchers — a leather handled page cutter and magnifying lense.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: Both will appreciate this wallet and key case in matching, embossed steer-hide for Christmas.

SPICES ARE NICEST for culinary-minded. Little red metal shelves above, containing an appetite whetting assortment, are ready to be hung on the kitchen wall, along side the gift cookbook.

SILENT BUTLERS are more handsome gifts this year because so many hostesses use one for nuts and bon bons and another for keeping living room ash trays empty.

GAY DECEIVER is this basket of plenty of cakes of soap, cellophane wrapped to look like foodstuffs— enough different scents to please every member of a large family.

SUPERSTITIOUS friends will no doubt love Aloysius who is available as costume jewelry and as a little statuette, to chase Jinxes. Clever Christmas accessory.

TABLE LIGHTER of distinguished new design is this one by Ronson, solving the problem of giving a gift to someone of taste.

TREAT THE HOSTESS graciously with service aids like the cheese and cracker tray, or apple slicer-and corer shown above.

THE TIME AND DAY in calendar and clock combinations to grace an executive's desk Both are clever two-in-one arrangments that take up a minimum amount of desk space the while they provide Mr. Executive with important information.

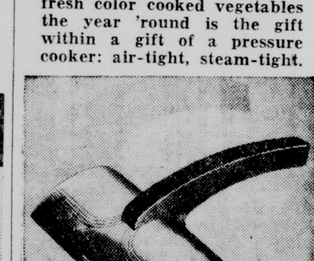

FOR YOUR READING PUBLIC, give one or more good books—classic or new best seller. Complete the gift with a pair of streamlined book ends.

EXTRA GOODNESS and fresh color cooked vegetables the year 'round is the gift within a gift of a pressure cooker: air-tight, steam-tight.

MINIATURE SWEEPERS to whisk crumbs off the table will be appreciated by the fastidious hostess, and will impress all her guests.

NEW FOR GALA NIGHTS is this plastic evening carry-all by Volupte with compartments for everything to make a girl glamorous. Center opening acts as convenient handle.

IRIDESCENT as a peacock's feathers is the metal plating of this gift jug set; keeps things hot or cold. The jug's hinged cover can't roll away.

A GIFT OF WARMTH for winter autoists is the motor robe—either in fur fabric lined wool or fringed blanket cloth. Both types also come in sizes for baby's carriage.

Flash Gift News

Times have changed since father was a boy, and imagined himself a sleuth, with a very simple flashlight. There are so many new types, attractive enough and most practical to give at Christmas! Here's a partial list of what the shopper may expect to choose from.

There's a streamlined, plastic encased flashlight which fits around the wrist like a bracelet and leaves hands free. The same principle is the feature of a flashlight which clips to the belt.

While a head-turning flashlight is particularly helpful in lighting up awkwardly reached places; another flashlight can be hung up; there is one that stands on its own; and a most durable type is fitted with shatterproof lense.

Try Window Shopping

Many a homemaker who hasn't felt free to invest in new window decoration, would be gleefully thankful for the gift of a curtain wardrobe, for the windows in one room—or in an entire house. Tiebacks for bedrooms, cottage sets and priscillas for kitchens, panels for living rooms, and ruffled styles for bathrooms are most popular.

Automatic Changer

When it is known that the record player in the home is an automatic type which plays one side of successive records and then the second side when they are all restacked, this information should be relayed to the record salesperson who will be able to supply specially made records for this type of player.

New Lamp Styles Tempt Shoppers

Not in many Christmases have the stores offered such a wide variety for selection in lamps as this season.

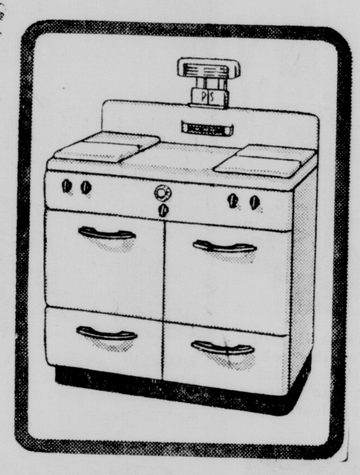

Whether the style be one of the inexpensive "pin-up" types, a table lamp, a floor lamp or a boudoir lamp, you'll find a greater profusion this year than ever before. Ceramic bases are popular as are metal and glass. Shades may be had in silk, rayon, and parchmont.
